WIDOW OF SLAIN MAN FAINTS AT INQUEST!

Banker Tells Of Fulton-Fuente Fake

BOXER GETS $7,500 FOR FLOPPING, CHARGE

Hollywood Financier Takes Stand and Relates Story Of 'Fixed' Battle

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26.—"I'm going to take a dive and get $7,500 for doing it."

It was not Annette Kellerman speaking but husky Freddie Fulton, St. Paul heavyweight pugilist, and he made the above statement to James McNeal, Hollywood banker, two days before he fought Tony Fuente in an asserted "fake" bout in Los Angeles, according to testimony given today by McNeal at the hearing of charges against the two fighters and their managers.

Fulton and his manager, Jack Reddy, and Tony Fuente and his director, Fred (Windy) Winsor gasped, as the Hollywood banker took the stand as the first important witness in the case charging Fulton participated in a prize fight in violation of a California law, and unwound his story.

All Fixed, Claim

McNeal, an old friend of Fulton, said Fulton told him he did not have to be in condition to fight Fuente "as the thing was all fixed" and he was ready to do his diving act."

James J. Jeffries, former world champion heavyweight, Tom Jones, manager of three former world champions, and scores of other ring celebrities, summoned as witnesses in the case, were convulsed with laughter as the trial progressed.

Attorneys for Fuente and Winsor brought forth laughter that rocked the courtroom when they questioned James Gordon, manager of the American Legion stadium where the Fulton-Fuente bout was staged.

Well, What Was It?

Gordon testified he saw Fuente at the start of the fight swing at Fulton and miss and then saw Fuente hit the St. Paul plasterer-pugilist two glancing blows and Fulton went down and out.

"Well, would you call that a prize fight—now remember, these defendants are charged with conducting a prize fight?" demanded the Fuente-Winsor attorneys.

Gordon stuttered.

"That's a hard one to answer," Gordon replied as a gale of laughter shook the courtroom.

Ex-Mayor Sentenced To San Quentin Jail

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 26.—Allen R. Morford, former mayor of St. Joseph, Mich., was en route today to San Quentin prison, following sentence late yesterday after he had entered a plea of guilty to charges of robbery, burglary and grand larceny and at which time he asked the court to send him to prison. The charges against the former Michigan mayor grew out of his confession several months ago that he robbed a local bank.

Morford's request that he be sent to prison where he will receive medical treatment, was based upon a physician's statement that he had but two or three months to live because of ill health. Morford was arrested last May, but had not been brought to trial because of ill health.

ARMY OFFICER WORSE

TETUAN, Nov. 26.—The hemorrhage suffered by General Frederico Berenguier, who succeeded the late General Serrano in the Moroccan campaign, was reported more serious today.

Multi-Millionaire Leaves Young Bride Said to Be Negress

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Leonard Kip Rhinelander has left his bride, daughter of a man who swore he was a colored man, and lawyers purporting to represent the multi-millionaire Rhinelander family, are trying to arrange for annulment of the marriage, counsel for Mrs. Rhinelander told newspaper representatives this afternoon.

"I will never give him up," he quoted Mrs. Rhinelander saying.

CABINET TO HAVE FEW CHANGES

Only Slight Chance Of Any Present Member Leaving On March 4

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Although the election is three weeks old enough has happened to indicate that very few changes will be made in the cabinet of President Coolidge on the fourth of March and that the real reorganization of the official family will take place in the interim after Congress has adjourned.

There is at the moment no certainty that there will be a single vacancy. Even James J. Davis, secretary of labor, may stay. In announcing the fact that Mr. Davis had volunteered his resignation, the president was careful to indicate that he still hoped to prevail on Mr. Davis to remain. There are certain circumstances under which he may be prevailed upon.

The job of selecting a secretary of labor is no easy one and as a rule stirs up all sorts of factional difficulties the best solution of which may prove in this case the retention of the incumbent. Mr. Davis' relationship, however, to the fraternal order of the Moose of which he is the virtual head, may require his return to private life.

The only other vacancy that has been regarded as certain is that of the interior department. It has been reported that Secretary Work wishes to leave on the fourth of March, but the talk is still in the vague stage.

Some cabinet officers like their jobs so well that they naturally want to stay. Others are more or less indifferent and will stay

Railroad Head Hints Strike Points at U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26.—The charge was contained in a statement issued today by President William Sproule of the Southern Pacific Co. that the strike vote now being taken by enginemen employed on the Pacific system of the railroad "is a move to discredit the railroad labor board and promote the passage by Congress of the Howell-Barkley bill."

The statement added that this bill, if passed, "will serve to deprive the public of a determining voice in fixing the rates of pay and working conditions of railroad employes."

"There has been no change in the cost of living that would justify the increased wages demanded by the leaders of the enginemen's organization," President Sproule's statement read.

CORNELL AND PENN TEAM TO CLASH

Noted Football Coaches to See Battle; Santa Clara Meets St. Mary's

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Eminent coroners of the gridiron will hold what amounts to an inquest over Pennsylvania football at Franklin field, Philadelphia tomorrow when Alonzo Stagg of Chicago and Bob Zuppke of Illinois, assisted by Glenn Thistlewaite of Northwestern, will view the Penn-Cornell proceedings in their best post-mortem manner.

Stories from the middle west have it that the three big ten coaches are speeding east to the game and we see no reason to doubt them.

Stagg and Zuppke will want to see what manner of team has the colossal temerity to attempt to swallow Yale next year, using Chicago and Illinois as a chaser.

Picks Penn to Win

Frankly, they will be there to see what Pennsylvania has, if anything. Neither of them esteem eastern football very highly, but the writer feels that they are due for a revision of attitude. The writer expects Penn to beat Cornell in a more or less convincing manner tomorrow.

Barring the Alabama-Georgia clash for the honor and glory of the south, the Penn-Cornell game takes precedence over all others on the holiday schedule. And, with a waning sun, collegiate football for the season of 1924 will have all but expired. There remain only the Army and Navy game and the affair between Carnegie Tech and Notre Dame on Saturday to conclude the campaign.

Nebraska, Oregon Aggies To Clash on Thanksgiving

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 26.—Light workouts this morning completed preparation by both teams for the Nebraska-Oregon Aggies football game in the Nebraska Memorial stadium here Thanksgiving day.

Robertson, Nebraska right end, is out of the game tomorrow on account of scholastic ineligibility, and R. Mandery, substitute end, was so badly battered in the Notre Dame game he will be unable to play. Joe Weir, a regular guard, has been shifted to the wing position in workouts and probably will appear at end in the lineup tomorrow.

Coach Schissler announced his Aggies are in splendid condition.

St. Mary's, Santa Clara To Meet at San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26.—Interest in the "little big game," in which St. Mary's and Santa Clara will meet here tomorrow, was at a fever heat today.

Supporters of both elevens were sanguine of success. St. Mary's entered the contest a favorite, due to her impressive showing throughout the season, but the bucking Bronchos from the Santa Clara valley were conceding nothing.

Walter Camp, who witnessed the "big game" between California and Stanford, will be a guest of honor at the St. Mary's-Santa Clara clash.

Fatty Arbuckle's Wife Asks Divorce In Paris

PARIS, Nov. 26.—Mrs. Arminta Durfee Arbuckle, whose determination to stand by Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, from whom she was separated, was one of the features of the case when the comedian was being tried after the death of Virginia Rappe at a party in a San Francisco hotel, asked the Seine tribunal today to grant her a divorce, charging he deserted her. She said they had been married in 1909.

Girl Found Suffering From Motorist Attack

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26.—Claiming she was beaten and thrown to the ground after she had accepted a ride in a stranger's automobile. Miss Hazel Woods was found in a street suffering from bruises here today. She told police a stranger invited her for a ride and then attacked her.

Mexico to Make Oil Laws More Liberal In Boosting Output

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 26.—The department of industry, commerce and labor announced this afternoon that it would begin next week on a revision of petroleum laws to the mutual advantage of the nation and the industry. It is believed this means that, instead of trying to exclude foreign capital, as demanded from many quarters, the laws will be liberalized to permit of greater exploitation and production.

STEELSTOCKS DISPLAYING STRENGTH

Upward Movement Results In Pulling Market Out Of Reactionary Trend

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—A strong upward movement of the steel company stocks pulled the market out of a reactionary trend which was fast developing in the first hour today. Anticipating a reduced demand for speculative stocks on the day preceding the Thanksgiving holiday, traders piled selling orders on the market in the first period and bears tested the strength of some of the industrial leaders which have refused to give ground persistently in recent sessions.

Some headway was made with a number of these stocks but bearish efforts were swept aside by the tremendous influx of buying orders for the steel stocks in the course of which prices jumped from 2 to 8 points and many stocks in this group sold near the high of the year, notwithstanding that they have participated very little in the post-election turmoil.

Demands for Steel

It was not long before other groups took up the advance, the textile, leather, sugar, equipment and motor stocks making a strong bid for higher prices.

Increasingly heavy demand for structural steel was reported today by the Iron Trade Review, thus substantiating the comments on current conditions in the steel trade by Judge Gary and the reports of larger activity in leading steel mills all over the country.

Steel construction awards this week have been record-breaking, according to the Iron Trade Review, which said that not since contracts of this kind have been tabulated over a period of several years had the total approached

ASSERTS U.S. SHOULD BE THANKFUL

Rev. Walter E. Edmonds In Thanksgiving Address At Luncheon Club

Rev. Walter E. Edmonds, pastor of the First Presbyterian church and president of the Ministerial union, spoke on the spirit of Thanksgiving at the weekly meeting of the Greater Glendale Luncheon club at the Masonic temple today at noon.

Rev. Edmonds dwelt on the great national blessings for which America is thankful. He recounted how the pioneers founded and built the great American nation. For the immortal accomplishments of these forefathers, he is thankful, Rev. Edmonds said.

Newly elected directors of the chamber of commerce were introduced at the meeting. W. G. Lauderdale, Arthur Campbell, W. L. Truitt, Frank L. Fox, Thomas D. Watson were those introduced by Secretary Howard I. Wood.

Wins Live Turkey

W. L. Truitt won the ten-pound live turkey donated as an attendance prize by George Lyons.

G. F. Orgibet, chairman of the day, called upon the more than half hundred business men and women who attended the meeting to tell in a few words what each was thankful for. Each member responded.

Party of Five Escape Death In Train Crash

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26—Mrs. Louise Terrill and her 5-year-old son were injured and narrowly escaped death here today when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by a railway train and dragged 150 yards. Mrs. Terrill suffered three broken ribs and severe bruises. Three others in the Terrill car escaped without injury.

Uncle Sam Takes Hand In Hard Coal Trouble

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Acting Secretary of Labor Robert C. White today ordered Thomas R. Davis, commissioner of conciliation, to Scranton, Pa., with instructions to mediate the strike of 12,000 anthracite miners employed by the Pennsylvania Coal Co., at Oliphant, Underwood and in the Pittston district.

U. S., Austria, Hungary To Settle War Claims

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—United States, Austria and Hungary today entered into a tripartite agreement providing for the establishment of a mixed commission to settle claims growing out of the world war.

Third Limerick Contest To Close Friday Night

Limericks are pouring into the office of The Glendale Evening News, funny, fast and furious. The third contest is going to be a howling success.

Remember, the third contest closes at midnight, Friday, November 28. The Glendale Evening News will pay $3 for the best limerick, $2 for the next best and $1 for the third selection. Each limerick must be signed by the name and address of the person offering it. None will be returned. The prize winners and a number of others will be published.

Mrs. T. R. Graham, 134 North Louise, provided this one in the contest just closed:

A woman who came from Kildeer,
Of switching freights had very much fear,
'Cause crossing tracks one day
She heard a brisk brakeman say:
"Cut off her head end and throw it up here."

Switching from trains to automobiles, here's one offered by Mrs. Clyde Hollenback, 815 South Maryland, and you'll agree, no doubt, that it's worthy of reproduction:

There was a car owner named Dover
Who gave his machine the name "Rover,"
"For it barks like a pup,
And chews money up,
And often rolls over and over."

Miss Grace Crampton, 325 West Burchett, submitted the following. Take a deep breath and go to it. It's not painful:

There once was a sculptor named Phidias,
Whose statues by some were thought hideous.
He made Aphrodite
Without any nightie,
Which shocked all the ultra fastidious.

It's easy to write limericks. Before you get "cold," just sit down now and dash off a few for the benefit of the Limerick Editor and the waiting public. Address 'em to the Limerick Editor of The Glendale Evening News, 139 South Brand. AND GET THEM AWAY AT ONCE! Don't be bashful.

GET CLIENTS FOR REALTY BARGAINS

Phil Norton Gives Talk On What He Considers Duty of Realtors

The duty of the realtor is not to grab the good bargains in land, but to secure clients for them, Phil Norton, of the Frank Meline Co., and chairman of the salesmanship committee of the Los Angeles Realty board, told the members of the Glendale Realty board at the meeting held today noon at Alley Inn.

The only faith needed to be shown in Southern California values, he said, should be by the "native sons," inasmuch as all other residents were brought here by their faith in the future of Southern California.

People from all parts of the world are coming to Southern California to live, he said. Foreign trade being built up with many countries has helped to acquaint residents of other lands with this country, he said. He told of the regard of foreigners toward Southern California, learned at first hand by working in Oriental lands.

Adverse Publicity

The speaker attacked the adverse publicity given Southern California by eastern newspapers. He urged all cities to reach out and beckon industries. He quoted Roger Babson in predicting Los Angeles and surrounding territory would become the industrial center of the world.

Mayor Spencer Robinson spoke on the proposed football game at Pasadena New Year's day, and urged the realty board to endorse U. S. C. as opponents of Notre Dame in preference to Stanford. The members voted in favor of U. S. C. on a motion presented by W. A. Horn.

President Twining named James Roach, Walter Horstman and Jack Galvin as members of the reception committee for next week. The committee will be changed weekly, he said. Meetings will start at 12:10 o'clock, President Twining announced.

Delegates Named

E. P. Hayward read a letter from Cameron D. Thom, thanking the members for the floral offering and resolution of sympathy following the death of his mother. Announcement was made of a field meeting on January 13. Peter Hanson was elected a delegate to the conference at Dallas in January, and President Twining was chosen delegate to the national convention in June at Detroit. L. A. Hart was named alternate to the Dallas meet and J. M. Boland as alternate to the national convention.

J. W. Pearson, Jessie Russell and J. M. Rusk were named as members of the taxation committee. After remarks by O. M. Newby, President Twining referred the question of further legislation on the Torrens title to this committee. Reports were made by the chairmen of the education, membership, reforestation and program committees.

Anti-Saloon Head Tells Coolidge Reform Need

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League of America, headed by Wayne B. Wheeler, today presented to President Coolidge a resolution calling attention to the need of various reforms in the enforcement of prohibition and outlining the legislative program desired by the league. The resolution urged particularly the adoption of the so-called Cramton bill, which would unite law enforcement work into one bureau and which would place all federal prohibition agents under civil service.

British Press Voices Regret at Criticism

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The British press today expressed regret at the criticism voiced in the United States, France and elsewhere regarding the swift and stern action of the Baldwin government in the Egyptian crisis.

Cardinal Hinted As Irishmen's Foe On New Year's Day

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26.—Selection of the football team to meet Notre Dame's championship eleven in the Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena New Year's day will be announced tonight, the Tournament committee said today. That Stanford had been selected was reported on all sides, but the committee refused to confirm these reports.

W. B. KELLY PRESIDENT OF LIONS

Dr. N. C. Paine Chosen First Vice President; Other Officers Named

W. B. Kelly, of 305 Randolph street, real estate agent, was elected president of the Glendale Lions' club at the meeting held today noon at the Tuesday Afternoon club. E. S. Beggs presided at the meeting, and the choice of officers was the first election held since the club was recently organized. Mr. Kelly was instrumental in organizing the club.

Dr. N. C. Paine was chosen first vice-president of the club.

George L. Kaeding was elected second vice president. A. R. Holland was chosen secretary and treasurer, a position he has filled since the organization of the club.

A. H. Mayne was named tail-twister and Paul D. Scoles was chosen lion-tamer. The officers were elected to serve until next June when the next election will be held. The present officers will constitute the board of directors under the rules of the organization.

Chauffeur Indicted In Death of Theatre Man

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26.—Zaner Southern, chauffeur, who shot and killed R. E. Mack, theatrical agency president, was held here today under a grand jury indictment charging murder. The jury held Southern despite a verdict of justifiable homicide returned at a coroner's inquest, where testimony was given that the slain man had stolen the love of Mrs. Southern.

DISPUTE OVER LOVE GIRL ADMITTED AT PROBE

Mrs. William Fee Collapses As She Comes Face to Face With Rival

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26.—Mrs. William R. Fee, wife of the wealthy San Gabriel and Alhambra, banker whose body was found hidden in a clump of brush a stone's throw from the cabin owned by Miss Mary Watkins, the banker's sweetheart, collapsed today as she left the witness stand at the coroner's inquest in San Bernardino and came face to face with Miss Watkins.

"There has been much unpleasant feeling between Mr. Fee and myself during the past six months over this girl," Mrs. Fee testified just before she sank to the floor in a coma.

Dr. G. E. Hull testified that the banker had been hit on the head and his skull fractured and added he was probably choked before he was dealt a blow on the head, which resulted fatally.

The cabin near which Fee's body was found belonged to Miss Watkins, she admitted today.

"I bought the cabin on Mr. Fee's insistence," she said. "It was our trysting place. He wanted me to have it. He was my best friend and adviser, and I loved him. That was all there was to our friendship."

Love Note From Girl Figures In Mystery Murder

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26.—A burning love note, throbbing with endearing terms and signed "All Yours, Mary," was scheduled to take the limelight late today at the inquest over the body of William R. Fee, murdered Alhambra and San Gabriel, Cal., banker.

The note was written to the banker, whose body, with an unlighted cigarette in the lips and a sprig of mountain laurel clutched between lifeless fingers was found in the wilds near San Bernardino, by Miss Mary Watkins, the financier's asserted sweetheart.

While Miss Watkins told investigators of the murder that Fee was just her "dear, dear friend," they produced her love note, which read:

Writes of Love

"My dearest: I am glad you are going away. I always hate to be away and keep thinking of your being around home, for I will be thinking of you most of the time—I'll be thinking anyway I've got a man who really is somebody who can do anything

Club Women Hear Details On Annual Event, Also Music and Talks

By KATHERINE V. SINKS
Of The Evening News Staff.

"If each of the 923 members of the club would do one thing well during the year, the burden of club activity wouldn't rest on just a few, and we would accomplish more," was the plea for cooperation made yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club by Mrs. Daniel Campbell, junior past president.

Mrs. Campbell rose from the audience to speak just after Mrs. Homer D. Lockwood, chairman of ways and means reported that twenty-eight club members have already worked out the $5 apiece, alloted to every club member during the year, saving the club $140 to date; and that $862 was realized on the annual bazaar held last week.

Financial Report

Detailed report from the bazaar, showing reports from the various booths and attractions: Courtesy committee, $164.75; Bible department, $22.36; Arts and Crafts and white elephant, $135-.19; Shakespeare department, $51; Parliamentary Law department, $43.75; patriotic committee and Americanization department, $76.35; badge committee, $15.75; Maids' and Young Matrons' and Fine Arts departments, $23.30; Mrs. Daniel Campbell tea cup fortune telling, $10; decoration committee, $5.07; Music department, $41.95; grandmothers, $44.41; Drama department, $12.65; Indian Welfare and Reciprocity committees, $15.35; luncheons, hospitality committee, $36.94; Literature department, $101; Decoration committee, $50; powder puff concession, $8.69.

Special Guests Present

A club luncheon was held at noon, featured by the presence of the Drama department at a special table. Among special guests were Martella Lane, well-known painter of California's Redwoods, who spoke in the morning to the Fine Arts department; Miss Elizabeth Mottern, talented Glendale singer, who sang a group of songs accompanied by Miss Knapp; R. Ernest Tucker, who spoke on Community Service; Mrs. R. E. Chase, founder of the Drama department of the club; Mrs. Beulah Wright Cumstock, instructor of the Drama department; Harold Brewster, dramatic coach at the Glendale Union High school, who gave satirical advice on play production; and Mrs. Max Lynn Green, curator last year of the Drama department.

Favor Postal Bill

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, club president, presided over the luncheon and afternoon program.

During the meeting in the afternoon the club adopted a resolution favoring Senate bill 1898, known as the Kelly Edge bill, giving increased salary to postal employes. Miss Ida D. Myers, curator of the American Citizenship and Legislation department, presented the resolution.

Mrs. Cumstock spoke briefly, concluding with a Thanksgiving prayer by Carrie Jacobs Bond.

Pianist Entertains

The club women were most happy to have as one of the artists of the late afternoon Wesley Kuhnle, Glendale pianist, who spoke at the club luncheon two weeks ago. Music lovers of the club have always been most appreciative of Mr. Kuhnle's talent and proud to claim him as a Glendale resident. Yesterday members and guests praised him in his playing of three Chopin numbers, two waltzes and "Polonaise Militaire." Later Arthur Kachel of "The Pilgrimage Play," gave a reading of "The Music Master."

In connection with club activities yesterday Mrs. Lane had on exhibit some of her Redwood pictures.

Plan for Community Thanksgiving Tonight

A community Thanksgiving service will be held at the Grand View schoolhouse tonight at 7:30 o'clock, this service taking the place of the regular prayer meeting. Announcement cards have been given out by members of the Boy Scout troop of the Grand View Community church. An interesting musical program has been arranged and will be opened with a piano solo by Oswald Morgan. Alpheus Moody, Jr., will sing "Can a Little Child Like Me?" The choir will sing "Harvest Home" and a violin duet will be played by Dorothy Buckman and Irene Hofstetter. Mrs. Morgan will sing in the Scottish tongue, "Mine Ain Countree," but it will be of America that she will sing her much beloved song. Rev. George W. Thomas, pastor, will preach a Thanksgiving sermon on "The Land of Thanksgiving."

Thanksgiving Service For Lutheran Church

Thanksgiving service will be held at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning by the Zion Lutheran church, corner of North Isabel street and East California avenue. Rev. Henry O. Kringel, pastor, will conduct services and Rev. Arthur C. Keck, pastor of the Lutheran church at Alhambra, will give a sermon on "Come Let Us Give Thanks Unto the Lord."

'Sage of Urbita' Forecasts Rain on Thanksgiving Day

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 26.—Rain will fall on Thanksgiving day, according to the forecast of Mrs. M. J. Baird, known as the "Sage of Urbita."

If Mrs. Baird's prediction is correct, a downpour will be "ushered in" tonight and rain will fall intermittently until Christmas.

Mrs. Baird bases her prognostications on the planets, she says.

REPUBLICAN CLUB TAKES ITS STAND

President Person Outlines Purpose and Aims of Glendale Body

To the Citizens of Glendale:—

Our country has recently passed through a political campaign in which the issues aroused the American people as they have seldom been aroused in times of peace. Party lines crumbled in the face of a common peril, the American spirit asserted itself magnificently, and the election was a triumph for the stability of our republic. Ordinarily such an overwhelming victory would make final disposition of the disturbing propaganda of the adversaries of our form of government.

Such, however, seems not to have been the effect, for already their leader has emerged from the avalanche of ballots with the defiant shout that he has "just begun to fight." This incident in itself need not disturb us greatly, for it is the cry of despair of a man whose hand has been against every man for a period of nearly forty years, now embittered by failure to realize a long-cherished ambition to become president of the United States. But there is cause for sober-minded people to reflect on the potential power for evil that lurks in an organized body of upwards of 4,000,000 voters bent on changing the basic principles of our government by making the legislative body supreme.

Half Country Voted

Consider first that approximately only one-half of the registered voters in the nation voted on November 4. In this body of 16,000,000 or more of registered voters who did not vote in the late election is a factor in politics that must be reckoned with. In it lurks a potential power that can dominate elections if it becomes aroused to action.

It is not safe to assume that the great body of citizens who did not vote is composed wholly, or even in the larger part, of good folk who lulled themselves into inaction because they are "optimists, believing "all is well with the world," and that nothing can jolt it seriously.

There is no means of ascertaining the quality of this large quantity of our non-voting citizens, and so long as that question remains undetermined—and indeterminate—it will be cause for serious concern.

Times Predicts

With these facts in mind, the warning note of The New York Times in a recent issue is worthy of serious reflection, for The Times is not an alarmist or given to hysteria; and the further fact that it is a Democratic newspaper which supported the candidacy of John W. Davis in the recent presidential campaign justifies serious consideration of its prediction that the election of President Coolidge will result in a "Democratic alliance with violent radicals" which "sober-minded citizens cannot contemplate without anxiety"; and that "four years hence we shall be faced with a contest striking at the very heart of the American system of security for property and for individual rights under the law and the constitution."

Those who keep reasonably well informed on the news of the day need not be reminded here that the forces that work for disintegration, if not actual destruction of established authority in a constitutional government with limited powers precisely defined and distributed with balance, are already actively organizing for continuing their propaganda. Evidence of their activity is in the public press daily And the fact that there is such activity makes it important that the supporters of stabilized government should be organized, alert and prepared to meet the enemy whenever, wherever and howsoever he may present a point of attack.

Republican Club

It is the purpose of the Glendale Republican club to combat NOW this radical propaganda, and we invite those of like mind and purpose to unite with us. There is no membership fee, and all (including minors over 18 years) who endorse the object of the organization, towit: "to aid in preserving the integrity of the Constitution of the United States and the form of government ordained and established by the fathers of our republic; to promote patriotism and respect for law and established authority; and to perpetuate the Republican party as a virile political agency of better government and enlarge its influence as the dominant constructive and defensive force in American politics," are invited to become members of the club.

Appeal is especially made to the younger generation to take the duties of citizenship seriously—and that means to take an active interest in politics along with the performance of other "good works." The Glendale Republican club offers you opportunity to make your influence more effective through organization.

We invite you earnestly to unite with us now, enlarge your circle of acquaintance, take part in the first annual election to be held next February 12, and become active in support of the highest ideals of the Republican party. Membership in the club will afford you greater opportunities for usefulness in a world that is sadly in need of the unselfish service of its best citizens. You may send or phone your name to any member of the committee on membership or other members or officers of the club. The membership committee so far appointed is as follows:

First Division—W. E. Hewitt, chairman, 319 East Randolph street, phone Glen. 2003-R; Frank L. Fox; 714 East California avenue, Glen. 10; O. F. Van Buren and Esther K. Van Buren, 440 West Dryden; J. A. Endicott, 116 South Brand, Glen. 822; Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, 307 North Kenwood, Glen. 1948; Capt. R. A. Tighe, 430 West Ivy; Fred Goodgellow, 705 South dams, Glen. 1085-R.

Second Division — Gould H. Warren, 1330 East Colorado, Glen. 3141-J; Owen C. Emery; Ed Radke, 720 North Howard, Glen. 2713; C. E. Kimlin, 306 Vallejo drive, Glen. 2498-R; Walter H. CROWD MAKES MERRY AT VERDUGO CITY PROGRAM

San Fernando Valley Representatives Guests Of Association of Commerce; Cabaret Entertainment Followed by Dance

By MARY B. DARROW
Of The Evening News Staff.

Verdugo City put it over with a bang last night when the Association of Commerce was host to the San Fernando Valley Associations of Commerce. The fun began as soon as the guests were seated at the long tables in the new market hall of the Fowler building at the corner of Los Angeles and Honolulu avenues.

Clever menus and programs gave the diners an idea of the pleasant time ahead. Every course on the menus was home made by the best Verdugo cooks, served under the expert direction of E. J. Fleming, chef pro tem. The guests voted the spread th best partaken of by them at any time. During the dinner funmakers of every sort were distributed. The men wore nobby little hats. The women were provided with smart Scotch caps and cone shaped black hats ornamented with gold stars.

In the midst of the dinner Owen Emery, attorney of Glendale, led the singing of the Verdugo City anthem to the tune of "When Johnny Comes Marching Home." Adding to the fun at the dinner was Miss Irene Jones, who did some very clever cabaret stunts.

Serve Two Groups

Due to the large number who were out for the affair the dinner was served to two groups, numbering in all 255. While waiting for the second group to dine, the others retired to the new auditorium which had through the courtesy of the Paseman's Floral shop of Glendale, been fittingly decorated in keeping with the occasion, marigolds, sweet peas and fern being used. The two pianos used in the building were through the courtesy of the Glendale Music shop.

Welcoming the guests to Verdugo City, Harry Fowler, president of the Verdugo City association of commerce, expressed his gratitude to the numerous people through whose efforts the success of the program had been assured and also hoped the visitors from the various San Fernando valley associations would come again to the valley.

D. Ripley Jackson, postmaster of the city of Glendale, assisted Mr. Fowler by acting as master of ceremonies upstairs as Mr. Fowler could not function on the two floors. Harry James told some remarkably clever English stories. Miss Irene Jones and her troupe of girls took up the major portion of the program with their clever dances, songs and impersonations.

Verdugo City was particularly fortunate in hearing in person two well known Victor record artists, Harry James and Charles Laird whose powerful bass tones were finely rendered in the Armourer's song from "Robin Hood," "Annie Laurie," and as a special treat for his second encore Mr. Laird gave "Rory Darlin'," written especially for him by Hope Templeton. Mrs. Mary Searcy Ball accompanied Mr. Laird in an artistic manner. Virginia Ellis gave two clever Italian dialect stories. Eileen Karr's oriental dance was a most finished production well given. By this time the second tables had been served so Mr. Fowler gave a short talk on the aims of his association, saying:

"Verdugo City is not quite nine months' old but has grown by the good work of the 320 families who signed up to call this part of the valley Verdugo City. We have definite plans for the future which Supervisor Henry Wright knows will take us five years ahead into the future, which will mean a definite outlay of money and time, none of which we will ask the county for. The completion of this hall will help us carry out our plans as it will be a place for the people of La Crescenta valley to come together to have good times and talk over serious problems."

In opening his talk Mr. Wright stated he did not wish to interrupt the very good time everyone was having. He said:

"I think we would be very ungrateful if we did not appreciate and thank Mr. Fowler for the splendid time he and his workers have provided for everyone present and thank him for the forethought that made the building of this splendid center possible. I take my hat off to the man who does not ask to be helped but goes ahead and does for himself. When we travel around through Los Angeles county and see the wonderful clocks, the temples, the roads and all the improvements being made by people and not costing the county anything, then we feel like congratulating the people of the small places who see ahead.

Discuss Annexation

"When I look around and see what Mr. Fowler is doing here, the splendid subdivisions you people are laying out here in Verdugo City, the wide streets you are making, widening the old ones. the work not being done haphazard, then I want to congratulate the splendid men and women who are helping Mr. Fowler."

In speaking of what he knows to be facts, Mr. Fowler said there was a quiet movement on foot to annex to a neighboring city and that he did not want to say much about it. Mr, Fowler said: "I will come out and say that I am strongly opposed to any such movement. We like our neighbors but we don't want to belong to them now. We want to go along in our own quiet way. All we ask is that they let us alone."

In introducing H. S. Ryerson as one of the hardest workers in Los Angeles, Mr. Fowler stated that the safety of streets for children was a problem in any city and that he felt any city in building should be careful and prepare for the years ahead and the safety of the children in particular.

Girl Wins Turkey

Mr. Ryerson stated that he felt it no time to talk on dry statistics and would only say a word, then on with the dance. He was delighted to be present, he said, to have been able to enjoy such hospitality and that he hoped he would be invited to come again. Mr. Ryerson said he hoped the city will grow so very quickly that he will have to come up shortly to help in road problems.

After some clever work in the impersonation line by Miss Shannon of the Jones troupe, Clayton Clarke of Glendale sang "California." Dancing was the next offering which was made merrier by the quantities of serpentine streamers thrown by the dancers as they circled the large hall.

Drawing for the turkey which was on display in a crate created some excitement. Miss Eva Poush was found to be the fortunate person. The Brahma rooster went to Sheridan Young, hardware merchant of Montrose. The turkey was raised on the Marks ranch at the corner of New York and Michigan boulevards, while the rooster was from the Kranch ranch on Montrose avenue. Further drawings were made for the following: Chevrolet coupe, touring car and truck donated by the Fowler Chevrolet Co. Schofield Keppel took the coupe, Mrs. Irene Rose won the sedan and Sheridan Young drew the truck. The lucky persons carried their cars home under their arms, the prizes being the clever little cars put out for advertising purposes.

Young People Gather To Study With Pastor

The young people's meeting held Sunday night at the Grand View Community Presbyterian church was attended by twenty young people, fifteen of whom are studying in the class of Rev. George W. Thomas, pastor, to become charter members of the new church. Part of the meeting was devoted to study and later they gathered around the piano and sang several selections. The class will meet with the pastor at his study each Wednesday afternoon after school and on Sunday nights at 6:30 o'clock. The class will form the basis of a Christian Endeavor society or Young People's society after the church has been fully organized.

Department Officer Guest at G.A.R. Meet

George W. Grannis of Turlock, department commander of the G. A. R., will be a guest at the joint meeting, Friday morning, of N. P. Banks post, G. A. R., and the Women's Relief corps in the G. A. R. hall on South Glendale avenue. Following luncheon, Mrs. Mary B. Bennett will preside over a meeting of the corps. Mrs. Bennett asks all members to bring donations for luncheon.

Protests Plan to Put Electric Sign on Hills

E. Dukinfield Jones, 118 Fairview, sends the following self-explanatory communication to The Glendale Evening News:

"Editor The Evening News—I see in your issue of November 4 the announcement of a proposition to place a huge electric sign with the name of GLENDALE on the hills to the north of the city.

"Surely there must be a sufficient number of people of refinement and good taste in Glendale to protest against such a disfigurement and desecration of our beautiful mountains. The charm of Glendale is the beauty of its surroundings, and anything which interferes with and destroys that natural beauty is a menace to the advancement of the city in all that is worthy of the name of higher thought and feeling. There are already far too many subdivision signs in the neighborhood, and to add the proposed sign to deface our noble mountain would be an irreparable disgrace to Glendale.

NEWSPAPER AID IN CITY BUILDING

Fraternal Man And Member Of Builders' Exchange Praises The News

Henry Molz, clerk of the local camp of the Modern Woodmen of America and secretary manager of the Builders' Exchange of Glendale, sent the following self-explanatory communication to A. T. Cowan, publisher of The Glendale Evening News:

"On behalf of Glendale Camp No. 12886, Modern Woodmen of America and the Builders' Exchange of Glendale, it gives me considerable pleasure in extending to you our sincere thanks for your paper's frequent and unstinted amount of space given gratis in furtherance of our activities and as a civic function.

"Both associations are doing a splendid work and as in the past, can be expected to support your valuable paper with paid advertising when occasion may require it; for we realize only too well, that yours is a pure business proposition, not a charitable one and as such depends upon an active income sufficient in volume to meet its expense as well as to provide an adequate and fair margin of profit.

Newspaper and Business

"It may not be intentional, but many business men seem to forget that the newspaper of their community reflects their own business spirit, and that if they want it in emergencies, and to be always advocating the best for the community, they must do business with it in a business way—as if they appreciated its efforts and influence, and not by negativing the same by their business methods with it. We realize that you publishers want business, but not upon a charity basis and that you give value received.

"In the course of my life's work I have learned that life's fulness consists of doing good things for the other fellow, and I would naturally fail in doing this were I to ignore the material aid your paper has extended the organizations I represent.

"Does any community like a traitor? No. Who ever heard any one remark, what a beautiful rose, when they smelled a skunk?

"We, who are developing what we sincerely believe to be the best and fastest growing city in these United States, will proceed as usual—just keep on boosting. And we'll wear no I. W. W. socks to keep us from working.

Newspaper Best Medium

"We like the party who slaps us on the back and says you're doing fine even if we know he is kidding us.

"Glendale has the lead in everything in Southern California as well as elsewhere. Glendale will be wise enough to conserve the benefits derived therefrom. She will be charitable enough to fully appreciate her undeniable position as the leader in her class. Let us not forget the pioneers who helped bring this ideal condition into reality. Let none of her citizens forget that they have a newspaper which has consistently published truthful reports of the cities progress, for such reports bring on increased population which increases newspaper circulation and results in increased business.

"A newspaper with a circulation that reaches the people is the best advertising medium ever tried, indeed, next to our modern show window display, is undeniably the best form of advertising man has conceived. It goes direct to the customer whose money spent here is well spent, because it benefits the home merchant direct and helps build up a home enterprise upon which the home merchant daily relies to fight for him and the interests of his community.

Favorite Paper

"Such a newspaper we have in your business enterprise, The Glendale Evening News. Personally, I have been a subscriber since my arrival in Glendale, five years ago. I have recommended it to my friends and acquaintances as a paper with a purpose and one worthy of their attention, and as long as its present policy is maintained, shall continue to do so.

"We applaud our favorite race horse, our favorite ball team and what not—why not let's have a little get-together applauding for Glendale and those instrumental in making it what it is—the fastest growing city in America. All together—Let's Go.

"HENRY MOLZ,
"Clerk, Glendale Camp No. 12886, Modern Woodmen of America.
"Secretary-Manager, Builders' Exchange of Glendale."

Teacher, 27, Weds Pupil, 17; Parents Asking Annulment

CANBY, Ore., Nov. 26.—This little town buzzed today with gossip over the marriage of Miss Rosemounde Shaw, 27, Canby high school teacher, to C. Leroy Samuelson, 17, "the best boy in her class."

The bride—a graduate of the University of Oregon—was just as determined to keep her school teaching position. Meanwhile young Samuelson is living at home and still attached to maternal apron strings while his bride and teacher continued her class work.

The couple were secretly married November 10 at Vancouver, Wash., young Samuelson giving his age as 21, the teacher admitting but 19 years. The parents of the lad will seek annulment, they said, on grounds of perjury, but counsel retained by the bride insists that the Washington law will prevent them.

The main drive of the Community Chest of Glendale ended last night with $27,738 pledged by 2,836 subscribers, or 55 per cent of the $50,000 goal set by the officers of the organization as necessary for the adequate financing of the fifteen beneficiary organizations during 1925. The total reported for the day was $2,916.

This total of $27,738 must be supplemented by at least another $10,000, or the functions of the participating agencies will be

Secretary Wood Gives Report on Activities Chamber of Commerce

At the last meeting of the old board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, held at the chamber offices, 150 South Brand boulevard, last night, Secretary Howard I. Wood reviewed in the following report the successful activities of the chamber since he assumed office August 1 of this year. The remarkable report was foundly applauded by the directors, who expressed their satisfaction and appreciation of the work being done by Mr. Wood. Following is the report:

To establish more points of contact with its members and the public, the Chamber of Commerce began in August, with the advent of the new Secretary, a series of open Forum meetings in co-operation with twenty civic organizations of the city. The underlying purpose of these meetings is to bring other civic organizations into closer touch with Chamber of Commerce work, and likewise, to give the Chamber and its members a closer insight into the work of other civic organizations, to the end that there may be built up a broader and better community spirit to meet and solve the problems of this "Fastest Growing City in America."

Monthly Forum Meetings—The third nthly Forum meeting was held Monday evening, November 24th, with the Glendale Realty Board as host, and was an unqualified success. The next monthly Forum will take place December 16th with the Mayor, City Manager, and Council as hosts.

Weekly Chamber of Commerce Luncheons—All Chambers of Commerce find that one of their greatest problems is to keep the organization democratic and in constant touch with its membership and the citizenship of the city. There is always a note of complaint on the part of small or outlying business people that they are not given any part in the work of the Chamber. This complaint is usually due to misunderstanding because the Chamber is always more than pleased to have just as many active officials and committeemen as possible. To answer this demand for frequent contact points with the membership where all things for the good of Glendale may be discussed, there was established the weekly Greater Glendale Luncheon Club of the Chamber of Commerce. These meetings are held each Thursday at noon and are attended by 75 to 100 people. They have served as a welcoming body to newcomers to Glendale, and as a means of drawing into civic and commercial work many people of talent and ability who had not previously been active in community affairs. Good projects which are launched at these luncheon meetings quickly find their way to the Board of Directors and the Board is always pleased to consider and include such projects in their official activities.

Censorship of Solicitations—Lying close to a large city like Los Angeles, Glendale naturally is a fertile field for innumerable illegitimate advertising schemes and other solicitations of no value to Glendale or its business people, but annually taking thousands of dollars from them and causing endless annoyance and waste of time. It is recognized that this condition cannot be entirely wiped out or overcome in any short period of time, but nevertheless that the setting up of some means of checking to the best advantage possible, the most glaring and outstanding of such schemes can be a great service to the business people of Glendale. To this end the Solicitations Committee of the Chamber of Commerce was created with the co-operation of the Merchants' Association and Advertising Club. While this work is not of a spectacular nature, it has nevertheless gone forward steadily and no less than twenty-five projects which would have taken thousands of dollars from Glendale have been checked or completely prevented.

Just within the past week, three or four projects calling for considerable money, have been completely or partly defeated and it is believed that in time Glendale can be kept free of a very large percentage of these schemes which take a great deal of money from the city but which bring no good to either the city or its people.

Industrial Council—The Chamber of Commerce Industrial Committee carried on very important work during the year, distinguishing itself particularly in the matter of keeping Glendale free of industrial stock promotion plans. The committee unhesitatingly took a stand against industrial concerns which desire to finance their propositions by stock selling campaigns in Glendale. Such work was of very valuable character and has, no doubt, protected Glendale people against a considerable volume of losses which might otherwise have been incurred. Beginning in September, a study of industrial matters brought forth the conclusion that the situation demanded something more than a consideration of inquiries as they are received by the Chamber. In other words, there must be a general industrial development plan laid down and followed in order to take advantage of such lands as the city and vicinity now have where industrial growth can be furthered. Briefly, the idea is to make use of all of the limited industrial area instead of having a thin industrial development only along the lines of the railroad. By getting lateral tracks, streets, etc., land at some distance from the railroads can be given trackage and other shipping advantages and will make possible an industrial district ten times as large as would be the case if industrial development took place in a haphazard way only in the vicinity of trackage. A capable industrial council, with representatives of the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific Railways, has undertaken this work and is quietly but steadily studying it and prosecuting it to a point whereby it is believed that scientific development can be brought about instead of a haphazard method of bringing about more industry in Glendale.

The Los Angeles Chamber has offered to co-operate actively in this work and their help will be sought and used, to the best advantage possible.

Glendale has about 1500 acres within the city limits and adjacent to the city which can be made available for industrial development if the project can be developed as a whole rather than in small parts, or in a haphazard way. The careful working out and fostering of this plan, it is believed, will hold forth one of the best projects for the future substantial growth and prosperity of Glendale.

Committee as follows: Chairman, T. W. Watson, H. Park Arnold, C. R. Smurr, S. C. Packer, J. M. Wilson, W. G. Lauderdale, W. L. Truitt, F. B. Ortman, W. E. Rauch, D. J. Hanna, H. C. Vandewater.

Advertising Committee—The splendid work of the Advertising Committee of the Chamber of Commerce in handling the present advertising campaign in behalf of the city is mentioned only briefly as no doubt a complete report of the work will be filed when the campaign is completed. In this connection, Glendale is receiving a good share of free publicity in magazines, newspapers, and elsewhere, and every week two or three illustrated articles go forth from the Chamber of Commerce offices which are published without expense in publications of large circulation.

Advertising committee: Paul Stillman, chairman; Geo. J. Lyons, H. S. Webb, E. P. Hayward, E. E. Osgood.

Among the new publicity plans being brought out might be mentioned the monthly Radio programs under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. The first one will be given the evening of December 9th between 9 and 10 o'clock thru the courtesy of the Los Angeles Examiner which broadcasts thru the Earle C. Anthony studio, known as KFI. This committee, at the present time, is contemplating the giving of Glendale Community programs by the Chamber of Commerce each month

Glendalian, Cousin Of Dawes, Receives Note by Coolidge

E. Lincoln Parke, of 377 West Lexington drive, received a personal letter from President Calvin Coolidge Monday. Mr. Parke has a radio and when the president delivered his last address before the presidential election, Mr. and Mrs. Parke entertained a few friends to hear the message. Mr. Parke wrote a letter to President Coolidge telling him how clearly his message was heard and also stating that he was a cousin of Charles G. Dawes, vice-president-elect. Mr. Parke was quite surprised and pleased to think that the president answered his letter.

RESULTS OF BALLOTING ANNOUNCED BY JUDGES

Additions to Board Chosen from Field of Seventeen Candidates; Members Retiring Express Themselves on Civic Work

Frank L. Fox, Dan Kelty, Arthur Campbell, W. G. Lauderdale, W. L. Truitt and T. D. Watson were named to the board of directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce as a result of the annual election which closed yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock. Only 283 members of the chamber voted, although this total was the largest vote on record and was declared to be entirely satisfactory.

Results of the balloting on the seventeen candidates, announced by James W. Pearson, chairman of the committee of judges, after the canvassing of the votes, were: Frank L. Fox, 179; Dan Kelty, 149; Arthur Campbell, 146; W. G. Lauderdale, 137; W. L. Truitt, 131; T. D. Watson, 126; George J. Lyons, 122; W. A. Tanner, 107; W. L. Twining, 105; Dr. T. C. Young, 98; S. C. Singer, 97; R. E. Johnson, 85; H. M. Butts, 63; Henry A. Michels, 47; Frederick Reinecke, 42; W. B. Kelly, 39, and George L. Kaeding, 20.

The six directors elected, along with two others to be appointed, will take the places of outgoing board members, who are: W. E. Hewitt, president of the chamber; George H. Bentley, R. F. Kitte-rman, A. R. Eastman, P. J. Hayselden, L. H. Wilson and E. C. Pendroy. Mr. Fox succeeds himself, he having been the only retiring member of the directorate eligible for re-election.

Holdover Directors

Members of the board who hold over are First Vice-President D. H. Smith, George B. Karr, Fred Deal, Lyman P. Clark, C. W. Ingledue and Harry MacBain.

Speculation was rife today as to the appointment of the two remaining members of the board. This function will take place at the first meeting of the new directorate next Tuesday night. It was generally conceded, unofficially, however, that Mr. Lyons, by virtue of his position as seventh highest man on the ballot and out of regard for the great amount of service he has rendered the chamber during the past year, will be one of the appointees. Whether Mr. Tanner or Mr. Twining, or either of them, will be the other appointed member, no one would venture to say.

The overwhelming vote cast for Director Fox, returning him to a seat on the board, was considered the outstanding feature of the election. Mr. Fox was one of the appointed board members last year. When he entered the chamber offices to attend the directors' meeting following the announcement of his election, he was given a rousing cheer by the large number of Chamber of Commerce members present.

POSTAL WORKERS RENEW FIGHT

Postoffice employes are preparing to renew their fight for increased pay when Congress convenes again. The bill passed at the last session of Congress, and vetoed by President Coolidge, now stands as unfinished business. There are those who favor attempting to force the bill over the president's veto, but others urge that, although it was predicted Coolidge would suffer at the polls for his veto of this bill, he was overwhelmingly endorsed, and, that since he has the administration of the postal service under his authority, it would be the part of wisdom to approach the matter in a different way.

It is understood that President Coolidge has not opposed and does not oppose increase in pay for postal workers. He vetoed the bill because there was no provision in it for raising the revenue to pay the increase. It is very easy for Congress to be generous in passing measures that call for the expenditure of public money, but it is very unbusinesslike to fail to provide some way of raising the revenue before such a bill is passed.

There is no department of our government that is so important as the postal service. Inadequate pay results in many instances in poor service, and in others in rank injustice. Men and women are giving of their services to the government when they might command a much higher salary elsewhere. This country is wealthy enough to enploy those in every department of the postal service who are well equipped to do the work, and to pay them adequately for their services. We all want to see the utmost efficiency in the postoffice department, and we want to see our loyal postal employes well paid. President Coolidge is right in wishing to provide for raising the revenue before the increase in pay is granted, but there is no reason why this question should not be settled satisfactorily to all concerned when Congress reconvenes.

DEMOCRATIC LEADER

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, one of the aspirants for the Democratic nomination for the presidency, is not pleased with the attempt of A. Mitchell Palmer to picture Governor Al Smith of New York as the leader of the Democratic party. Mr. Glass, in his paper, the Lynchburg, Va., News, says that John W. Davis is entitled to that designation until the next Democratic convention places it in other hands, and he adds that it is very likely Davis will again be chosen as the presidential candidate. A decisive bulk of Smith's followers in New York plunged the knife into Davis' candidacy, and this will work to the injury of Smith as far as his national Democratic status is concerned.

"Of course," says the article, "It was to be expected that Smith would lead the ticket in New York, but when that lead gave him more than a hundred thousand majority, while Davis is defeated by about a million majority in the same state, then is furnished food for thought that the difference is too stupendous to explain on any other hypothesis than that which reflects damagingly upon a formidable proportion of the governor's supporters."

Politics is a game in which the unexpected often happens. It is beyond the most astute observer to predict who will be the Democratic leader four years hence.

LEGION ASKS DEFENSE

Speaking before the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor in session in El Paso, Texas, the other day, National Commander James A. Drain, of the American Legion, said the Legion desires peace because it knows war, and it is striving to bring about a reduction of armaments, but, "until that day comes when a lasting peace is established on principles of justice, the United States must sustain a navy equal to any. Its army must be very efficient, and capable of quick expansion to the emergencies of war; and its air forces must be adequate. We must have reserve forces for land, sea and air, and industry must be prepared for the demands of war."

When Kansas is assured by the Almighty that there will be no more cyclones in Kansas, they can do away with cyclone cellars. But, doing away with cellars will not stop cyclones in Kansas.

Building up a big fighting machine may lead to the desire for conquest, and should be discouraged. But, doing away with an adequate defense force will not stop war, rather it will invite invasion. Not until all nations agree to total disarmament will it be safe to dispense with all methods of defense.

AMERICANS NEGLECTFUL

We are a very careless people concerning our national welfare, after all. Before the election we were very much agitated about what might happen should none of the three candidates receive a majority of the votes cast and should Congress fail to agree upon any candidate. That peril may never confront us again, and yet it may. The constitution and the federal statutes say nothing about the course to be pursued in such a contingency. The New York Times declares it would be a pity if the feeling of uncertainty and apprehension that prevailed before the election should be allowed to evaporate without inducing Congress to fill this gap in our laws.

During President Wilson's illness it was rumored that the affairs of the country were being administered by those who had been given no authority by the people to do so, but as soon as the danger was past we forgot to make any provision for such a circumstance should it arise again. "Take no thought for the morrow," seems to be the motto of the American people.

IBANEZ ATTACKS ALFONSO

The pen is mightier than the sword. No one will deny that Vicente Blasco Ibanez wields a powerful pen, and there is much speculation as to how King Alfonso of Spain will withstand the attack of this weapon. In a book entitled "Alfonso Unmasked," this writer charges the king with being personally responsible for the Spanish military disaster in Morocco in 1921 in which General Silvestre and several thousand Spanish soldiers were killed and thousands of others taken prisoner. He claims, also, that Alfonso betrayed the French and gave secret information to Germany during the war and that he wrote to General Silvestre, "Do as I say. Don't worry about the instructions of the minister of war, who is an imbecile."

Alfonso has always been more or less of a weak brother, and it is difficult to predict just what will be the outcome of these revelations.

The Thankful Attitude

By DR. FRANK CRANE

After all, thankfulness is not a matter of fact; it is a matter of discipline. It is an attitude toward life.

There is no good going over a list of things to count those that we should be thankful for; it is easy enough for those who are not thankful to make a list of those things they are disappointed in.

When you tell a man he should be thankful and then enumerate the reasons why, you are competing with his imagination and you are sure to be beaten.

If one goes through life with a feeling that he deserves nothing, whatever he gets will be a beautiful surprise to him.

That is why so many people are continually happy. They do not think they should have anything and consequently whatever they get is that much extra.

When you find, on the contrary, a selfish egotist who thinks that he should have everything, whatever he gets is a disappointment.

If you think you should be hanged by a halter, says Carlyle, to be hanged in hemp is a privilege.

After all, what we call happiness is not a thing in itself. It is a relation between two things. It is what we have, divided by what we think we ought to have.

Those who have a thankful disposition, that is, those who think they continually get more than they deserve, are apt to be cheerful. They are pleasant people to know and to do business with. Those, on the contrary, who think they never get their deserts, and who always find the actual falling below the ideal, are disgruntled and unhappy.

It all depends, therefore, upon ourselves and our opinion of our deserts. There are those to whom the world is a continual delight and surprise. Every day is a new discovery of new blessings. They are in a continual state of happiness.

This is not because they are any better off than other people, but because the value of the common fraction is greater. That is, the denominator of what they think they ought to have is continually greater than what they do have.

Blessed, says the proverb, are they who want nothing, for they shall be satisfied.

Horoscope

Astrologers read this as a very doubtful day in planetary direction. Although Jupiter and Venus are in mildly benefic aspect, Neptune and the Sun are adverse.

The rule favors attention to ordinary, routine work, the finishing of unpleasant jobs and laborious tasks of all sorts.

Hindrances and worries are likely to be felt where love affairs are concerned, for misunderstandings and deceptions are indicated.

It is a most threatening wedding day, making for many disagreements and even ultimate divorce.

The New Moon of this date is most fortunate for workers, but the position of Saturn denotes much illness among them.

Again the death of a noted official is foreshadowed and much mortality among public men is prognosticated.

The conjunction of Mercury and Jupiter should be favorable for international adjustments.

Foreign trade and commerce should be improved with new channels of communication and interchange opened southward.

Fluctuation of the money market is forecast, and it may have some effects upon holiday shopping.

There is a sign read as presaging much socialistic propaganda which will be peculiarly effective among certain people at this time.

The rule is promising for theatres, favoring civic and community enterprises more than those exclusively commercial.

Serious political troubl menaces Great Britain, if the stars are correctly interpreted.

Persons whose birthdate it is have rather a promising outlook, but they should be careful to avoid accidents, especially those of the automobile or airplane.

Puzzle

HOW TO SOLVE PUZZLE

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word— is iven in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

(Running Across)

Word 1 is medicine Willie must take (plural).

Word 4 is musical instrument on which Willie hates to take lessons.

Word 5 is the plural of the last word of a nursery rhyme that begins "Baa, Baa, P ck Sheep."

(Running Down.)

Word 1 is another word for scholar.

Word 2 is what a good scholar must do.

Word 3 is an article of clothing made out of the hide of cattle (plural).

Radioland

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—London, Aberdeen and Glasgow were today listed as radio suburbs of New York with amateurs pouring in reports to officials of International Radio week of successfully tuning in on the second trans-continental broadcasting hour.

Full programs broadcast from England and Scotland were heard distinctly by hundreds of radio fans in New York, Westchester county, New Jersey and Connecticut.

Raymond L. Dittmars, curator of the Bronx zoo, said he had heard a solo on bagpipes from Aberdeen.

Mrs. Edna M. Smith of Jamaica, Long Island, reported she had "picked up" a station she believed to be Madrid. C. M. Shaefer of Staten Island, said he distinctly heard Aberdeen. Edward Leech of Bayonne, N. J., telephoned he had listened in to the sextette from Lucia, from Glasgow or Aberdeen.

The reports of radio fans indicated that only three of the fourteen high-geared European broadcasting stations participating in the test were able to "shoot" their programs to America with continued clearness. These stations were 2BD, Aberdeen, 495 meters; 5NO, Newcastle, 400 meters, and 2LO, London, 365 meters.

Chicago Gets Europe

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—More than a score of radio amateurs today reported having received European radio programs broadcast last night in the first of a series of international radio tests. James Phillips, using a four-tube set, reported picking up 2-LO, London, at 10:16, and holding it until 10:42. Robert Mandell reported having picked up PTT, Lyons, France, during a rendition of the "Marseillaise." Mayor Sherwood Boyd, Winnetka, reported having picked up the signal of the station at Aberdeen, Scotland, with only a two-tube set. The eight-tube super set heletrone of H. B. Beeker was reported to have picked up the weather report from F1, the Eiffel Tower station.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNARD

ANOTHER SUPERSTITION DISCARDED

One by one the old superstitions pass. For many centuries heart wounds were regarded as necessarily fatal. Now surgeons know that this vital organ is not outside their legitimate province.

More important than anything that could happen in Hollywood, Palm Beach, Broadway or any of the other popular centers of news interest, is the modest announcement of the Harvard surgeons, Cutler, Levine and Beck, that certain cases of mitral stenosis, or stricture of the mitral valve of the heart, can be relieved by surgery.

"The road to the heart," says a graphic writer, "is only two or three centimeters in length in a direct line, but it has taken surgery nearly 2400 hundred years to travel it."

The pioneer into uncharted places usually proceeds at his own peril only; he pays the penalty for failure with his own person. The surgical pioneer, however, literally takes the lives of others in his hands.

Daring, under such circumstances, must be fortified with wisdom and stamina.

It is not to be wondered, then, that many parts of the body remained untouched so long by the surgeon's hand.

Today no large part of the body remains free from surgical approach. The abdomen, thorax and cranium have already been invaded by the trained surgeons with eminent success in the relief of a variety of maladies. Blood vessel and nerve surgery has been developed to a high degree of skill. Plastic transformations are being made in various parts of the body—every day or so we read in the newspapers that an actress has had her weight cut down sixty-four pounds on the operating table; a war veteran has had a lost ear replaced; a child has been given a new walking apparatus.

This progress has called not only for great resourcefulness of hand and mind, but also for personal bravery.

So it is in other lines of endeavor. What man most fears is the unknown. The pioneer must be a man of courage. He must defy traditions, and forget history. This is particularly true in science.

The improver of natural knowledge absolutely refuses to recognize authority as such. For the scientist, said Huxley, scepticism is the highest of duties; blind faith the one unpardonable sin.

"The man of science has learned to believe in justification, not by faith, but by verification.

"Science commits suicide when it adopts a creed."

Who's Who

The other day John Philip Sousa, an infant prodigy who never outgrew it, but instead, became the greatest bandmaster in the world and one of America's greatest composers, celebrated his 70th birthday.

He celebrated it by giving two concerts at Madison, Wis. And he intends to celebrate many coming ones the same way. For at 70 he works as hard and feels able to, as he did twenty or thirty years ago.

Sousa started his musical career as a boy wonder violinist. He did not stick long to "fiddling," however. In his long and busy life Sousa has been a music teacher, first violinist, orchestra conductor, bandmaster, composer, traveler and writer. He has composed suites, symphonic poems, musical comedies and operettas, as well as the marches associated with his name. He has written at least two novels, as well as many magazine articles.

He was leader of the famous Marine band from 1880 to 1892, playing at the White House in the days of Presidents Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, Cleveland and Harrison. Resigning from the marine corps to organize a band of his own, he made forty or more tours of the United States. He has toured the world with his organization and taken it to Europe several times. He went back into the naval service in the war period and did his conspicuous bit.

MEMBERS OF C. C. ELECT DIRECTORS

Six Chosen From Field of Seventeen; Official Results Given

board members were presented with small cards, signifying service on the board of directors of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce. The cards were passed out by President Hewitt. Each outgoing director responded with a short talk. Director Bentley said he had enjoyed the work on the board, having been one of the original members following the reorganization four years ago. He said he was sorry to leave the work. Director Eastman, who has served as treasurer on the Chamber of Commerce during the past year, spoke of the close friendships which he had cultivated while on the board. Percy J. Hayselden predicted a new era in Chamber of Commerce work in Glendale under the capable supervision of Secretary Howard I. Wood. He said he hated to leave the board, and only regretted that he had not been able to accomplish more while on it. He pledged his full support to the new board. L. H. Wilson said he had been appointed to board membership for two successive years, and had missed but few meetings during that time. He had enjoyed the work immensely, he said. Director Kitterman said he had felt toward the Chamber of Commerce work just as he had felt toward his own business, and had acted accordingly. He said he had spoken his mind at all times. He pictured the work of the Chamber of Commerce board as the foundation for a greater Glendale, which, he said, is the only object of the chamber. Director Fox said he would never forget the associations he had had on the board. He said these had brought him closer to Glendale.

Election Tuesday

President Hewitt declared he has taken pride in Glendale and its Chamber of Commerce. He said that, in spite of what is said, the chamber is really accomplishing many great things. It is working for the city's interests and not allowing politics to interfere with this work, he said. The time and efforts of the board of directors have been given unsparingly without any reward, he declared, reward coming only in the satisfaction felt at work well done. He tendered his sincere thanks and appreciation to all members of the board who have served with him.

Vice-President Smith, Second Vice-President Karr and Directors Ingledue, MacBain, Deal and Clark spoke briefly on behalf of the remaining members of the board, declaring that, with the closing of last night's meeting, the best members of the directorate were stepping out of office. They paid many high tributes to the retiring directors.

Beside the appointment of two more members of the new board at the meeting next Tuesday night, the election of officers for the year will take place, and the board will organize for the work ahead during 1925.

Community Chest Drive To Resume on Monday

greatly hampered during the coming year, President W. E. Hewitt of the Community Chest told the workers gathered for dinner last night at the Glendale Presbyterian church, after the reports had been made and it was seen that the drive had fallen far short of its goal.

By accepting the Community Chest idea we have assumed a responsibility toward each of the fifteen organizations we aimed to finance in this one big drive," President Hewitt told his audience.

"We cannot shirk that responsibility, and not one of us who has seen this thing through to this point would want to.

"Therefore I say, on behalf of the officers and directors of the Community Chest of Glendale, that we will start again next Monday and go on until we have raised at least $10,000 more."

Roy L. Kent, chairman of the executive committee and first vice-president of the organization, spoke briefly, praising particularly the work of the women and declaring that the people behind the drive are more convinced than ever that the Community Chest idea is the only practical solution of the problem with which it attempts to deal.

L. D. Mowat, assistant manager of the Community Chest of Los Angeles, declared that his organization is to be disbanded today, still $100,000 short of the goal, but that the deficit will be obtained in a supplemental drive to be launched next Monday and to continue another two weeks.

"It isn't time for you to quit, any more than it is time for us to quit," he said. "We must follow up our prospects and canvass every possibility. Next year the Community Chest drive will be easier. It is a thing of proven merit and ultimately solves the problem wherever it is adopted."

At the conclusion of the meeting it was announced that the local Salvation Army organization will put on a "Tag Day" campaign Saturday, November 29, in connection with the Community Chest drive, with Ensign Kranz' twenty-piece band as a part of the program.

This campaign will be put on in typical Salvation Army style, it was explained, with prominent business men making short talks on the street corners, urging contributions.

Executive Tells of Work by Organization; Directors Show Appreciation

thru the several broadcasting stations of Los Angeles and Hollywood.

Membership—In membership work a plan of visiting the members and other business people who should be active in Chamber of Commerce work has been prosecuted for the past two months and has met with a reasonable degree of success. This campaign work was led off by members of the Board who spent a day or more in such wor' and was then followed by the membership committee. The Chairman of this committee and several of its members have given a great deal of time and attention to this work and are to be commended for their efforts.

While the membership of the Chamber of Commerce is small for a city the size of Glendale, it is on a substantial upward trend and it is believed that continued activity along the lines being carried out by the membership committee will show excellent results thruout the forthcoming fiscal year. Committee: L. F. Millet, Chairman; D. L. Gregg, Roy L. Kent, Jesse S. Smith, and C. E. Kimlin. No effort is being made in this brief report to recount the complete work of all committees, but it may be said in a general way that committee work has been broad a d efficient and is being constantly organized toward the end of achieving success in the promotion of all things which are good for Glendale.

Flood Control Committee—The Flood Control Committee has been very active in the past few weeks in studying and conferring on the matter of a permanent flood control plan for Glendale. This work is still under way but has brought to Glendale people who have never seen a flood such as the one of 1914 a better idea of the danger which menaces the city and will, no doubt, bring forth valuable recommendations for permanent work along such lines.

Flood Control Committee: W. J. Curren, Chairman; Lon Haddock, Dr. T. C. Young, Spencer Robinson, Arthur Campbell, P. J. Hayselden, M. Walters, J. C. Sherer, F. P. Newport, Mr. Woodbury, Peter L. Ferry.

Track Depression—One of the biggest projects on which the Chamber of Commerce has just started work is the matter of the depression of the Pacific Electric tracks on South Brand Boulevard to the Los Angeles City limits. This is a major improvement needed not only for the further growth and development of business, but likewise as a traffic safety measure. The numerous obstacles toward success in this work are recognized and the business people in that portion of the city should, and no doubt do, understand that it may require a very long fight before results can be accomplished. The Chamber has passed a resolution to do everything in its power to bring about this project and will leave no stone unturned to complete the work with success.

Apartment House Committee—There has been created in the Chamber an Apartment House Committee which not only has been the means of offering a service to the public in locating newcomers in suitable living quarters, but likewise has brought a considerable number of new people into general Chamber of Commerce activities.

Neighborly Relations — Several meetings with Burbank, Montrose, Verdugo City, La Crescenta, Sunland and Tujunga have been held by the Chamber of Commerce and relations with these towns are in splendid shape.

Conclusion—There has been no effort in this brief report to chart or recount any large part of the Chamber's activities. Some of the major plans only have been touched upon.

The number of persons calling per day at the Chamber of Commerce offices average twenty. The number of telephone calls average one hundred.

There is mailed out daily not less than fifty pieces of literature to all parts of the world advertising Glendale and this mailing is frequently as high as 300 or 400 pieces per day.

These items give some little idea of the daily routine of business which flows through the offices of the Chamber. The Chamber of Commerce should be and aims to be the sales force of the City of Glendale. It is pleased to co-operate with all its business people and citizens, all of its civic organizations, to the end that there may be one central organization which is the contact point as a selling organization between Glendale and the world at large.

HOWARD I. WOOD,
Secretary.

President W. E. Hewitt augmented this report somewhat by enumerating a number of accomplishments of the board under the outgoing administration prior to the time Mr. Wood took the secretaryship. President Hewitt pointed to the inaugural banquet, the part the chamber played in the sewer campaign, the work of the committee on junior high schools, the 50,000 automobile banners which were distributed and the parade at the National Orange show at San Bernardino in this connection, the winning of first prize in the Rose Tournament at Pasadena last New Year's day, the work done during the firemen's strike, the successful efforts of the chamber to get a new Southern Pacific station, the establishment of an advertising fund committee and the conduct of the subsequent drive, the elimination of tent shows from Glendale, the reception tendered the National Association of Americ.. Engineers during their convention at Pasadena, the work with the Angeles National Forest Protective association and a number of visits made by the directors to industrial plants throughout the city.

Chamber of Commerce Favors Flood Survey

were President W. E. Hewitt, D. H. Smith, George B. Karr, Fred Deal, Harry MacBain, C. W. Ingledue, George Bentley, Frank L. Fox, R. F. Kitterman, A. R. Eastman, P. J. Hayselden, L. H. Wilson.

The action was the result of the meeting Monday between Chamber of Commerce officials, members of the City Council and the Los Angeles county Board of Supervisors, at which time final decision of flood control work in Glendale was put over until January 12, and the Glendale agencies interested were instructed by the supervisors to "get together and agree upon some plan" before that time.

Lynch Suggested

Although no suggestion was made in the final motion, which will be conveyed to the City Council, members of the directorate expressed themselves in favor of Edward M. Lynch, Glendale engineer and formerly city engineer and street superintendent, as the man best fitted to make the flood control survey. They left the selection up to the city.

The necessity of doing something definite and tangible was stressed by President Hewitt in bringing the matter before the meeting. He said that the Chamber of Commerce recently had taken an active part in the matter and Glendale was looking to that body to lead the way to a final agreeable decision now.

"No one in Glendale wants that open ditch," he said. "I am sorry that City Manager Stone feels that the Chamber of Commerce is trying to upset plans, for we are not, we are only trying to help."

Traffic Taken Up

Directors MacBain, Hayselden, Ingledue, Wilson and Kitterman all spoke in favor of the survey and urged getting at the sound engineering facts involved in the flood control problems immediately. It was urged by the board that the engineer employed by the city take into conference all property owners directly affected who live along either Verdugo wash or Sycamore Canyon drive.

Director Hayselden reported to the Chamber of Commerce board on the meeting between the City Council, Glendale Planning commission and Harland Bartholomew, traffic expert, at the Harvard High school last Wednesday. Mr. Hayselden declared that it is the belief of the planning commission that connection with the highway plan of Los Angeles must be made by Glendale and that either Mr. Bartholomew or some other traffic expert will, in all probability, be engaged by the city shortly.

New Year's Float

Final arrangements for the entering of a float in the New Year's day parade at Pasadena were made by the board last night. A concentrated effort to collect all balances due on pledges made to the Glendale Advertising fund will be made by the Chamber during the coming week. Directors Hayselden, Karr, Clark, Smith, Fox, Eastman, MacBain and Hewitt will attend the sessions of the second Mid-Year meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce to take place at Los Angeles on December 2.

The following firms and individuals were voted to membership in the Chamber: Dilley Brough Furniture Co., Dr. J. H. Gilkerson, Craig-Keyes Co., Harold H Campbell and Lamoreaux & Clark.

Miss Myrtle Baldwin and Mrs. Frank Arnold were assured by President Hewitt and Secretary Howard I. Wood that some other date beside December 16 would be chosen for the next forum dinner of the Chamber of Commerce, as that date conflicts with the production of "The Messiah," which will be given here under the auspices of the Woman's Choral club.

The Wrath To Come

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM, Copyright 1924

CHAPTER XXIX

"You're annoyed, and I don't want you to be."

"Does it really make any difference?" she asked a little bitterly.

"Of course it does."

"Do something to please me then, will you?"

"Anything," he declared with foolish optimism.

"Don't dine with that Von Diss woman tonight."

He was distressed.

"My dear Susan!" he expostulated. "I can't get out of it."

Had you asked her to dine with you or did she invent that on the yacht?"

"She invented it on the yacht," he admitted. "At the same time I accepted it, and, to tell you the truth, Susan, for certain reasons, I really am anxious to dine with her."

"The certain reasons being, I suppose, that she may go on making love to you in the fragrant way she did on the yacht."

"Do you mind whether she does or not?"

"Not in the least," she declared untruthfully.

"Then it wouldn't be any use my asking you—"

She turned suddenly towards him with a touch of her old manner.

"You can ask me anything you like, Grant, if only you'll promise not to dine with her tonight."

He was half embarrassed, half irritated. She was, after all, such a child.

"Susan," he begged, "be reasonable."

"What a horrible suggestion!" she scoffed. "I'll be reasonable when I'm middle-aged—when nothing matters. I'm a very foolish person, of course, but it does happen to matter a good deal to me that you insist upon dining with that woman tonight. To prove how unreasonable I am—voila!"

The car had been crawling round the corner of the Square, and Susan jumped lightly onto the footpath. She waved her hand to Grant.

"Thanks so much for the game," she said. "I'm going to talk to Bobby and Rose."

She waved her hand once more and started off to join her friends. Grant stopped his car by the pavement.

"Look here, you can't leave me like that," he protested. "Your father left you in my care."

"Can't help it," she replied. "You were beginning to bore me, so I had to escape."

"But how are you getting out to the Villa?" he asked.

"Bobby will take me. Won't you, Bobby?"

"Rather!" that young man promised. "Push off, Grant! You've had a pretty good innings, old chap. We haven't seen anything of Susan all day. Come along! We'll have mixed vermouths over at the Cafe de Paris, gamble for half an hour, then we'll get rid of Rose, and I'll take you home in a petite voiture."

"It's a desperate enterprise, but I accept," she declared. "Goodbye, Grant! Hope you enjoy your dinner."

"I shall do my best," he answered, with a little unnecessary emphasis.

"Well!"

The monosyllable was suggestive, almost illuminative. Gertrude had paused for a moment on the threshold of the little salon, which she was entering from her bed-chamber. Her unexpected visitor, Mr. Cornelius Blunn, looked across at her with a deprecating smile.

"I am a monument of apologies, Princess," he said.

"We will take them for granted, then," she replied. "What do you want?"

He glanced at the clock.

"Five minutes' conversation," he begged, "or, if by any fortunate chance, you are disengaged—"

"You know quite well that I am dining with Mr. Slattery," she interrupted.

"I had imagined so," he assented. "It is about that dinner engagement that I venture to come and see you."

"You will, I trust, avoid impertinence."

"I shall try," he assured her. "Princess, your mission here was a difficult one. So far you have performed it with much skill."

"I am flattered," she murmured, with latent irony.

"I may or may not share your opinion as to Mr. Grant Slattery," he continued, "but, in other respects, you have done well. I am here to beg you not to spoil the good effects of your work."

"Will you please say what you want to in as few and as plain words as possible," she invited.

"I obey," he answered, with a bow. "You came here to try and solve for us a somewhat vexed question concerning this young man, Grant Slattery. You think that you have arrived at the truth concerning him. I am going to be frank with you and tell you that I am not so sure. But I am convinced of one thing—that you have gone as far as Otto would approve in your investigations." very well for you, but I do think Arthur ought to be more careful. Father never says much but I fancy he's thinking a good deal."

"You think that I am likely to lose my head about this man?" she asked.

Blunn made no reply. She waited for a moment and then glanced towards the clock.

"Otto is my friend," he went on, "and Otto, as you know, is of a very jealous temperament. I think you would be wiser to cancel your dinner engagement for this evening."

"For a clever man," she said deliberately, "I think you are the biggest fool I ever knew."

PITTS PLAYERS

Pitts Players will make their official bow to the public tonight at their new tent theatre at the corner of San Fernando boulevard and Cedar street, Burbank, it is announced, when an orchestra of eight girls playing popular melodies will supplement the presentation of "The Fortune Hunter," a modern comedy drama.

The cast is made up of sixteen well selected artists who for two nights now have presented this snappy play to Glendale and Burbank audiences without admission charge. In announcing the official opening tonight, the management urges theatre-goers to come early as a record crowd is expected.

Ample parking space has been provided for all cars and other arrangements have been made for the comfort and convenience of the audience. The curtain rises at 8:15 o'clock.

THE T. D. & L.

"In Every Woman's Life" opens today at the T. D. & L. Theatre.

THE GLENDALE

Baby Peggy in "The Family Secret" opens today at the Glendale Theatre.

THE GATEWAY

When "tummies" hurt, babies cry—that's as sure a rule as that two and two make four, or that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points. So when a certain scene in Wesley Barry's latest picture, "The Country Kid," now showing at the Gateway Theatre today only, called for this "tummy" pain-business, it was natural that Baby Bruce Guerin should be asked by the director to bawl out lustily and realistically.

He was asked. He did cry. But he cried so long that he got tired, did little Baby Bruce. Finally the worm turned. Baby Bruce ran to his mother, who is always present on the "set" and asked, "Mother, when do I work in another kind of picture?" He was consoled when told he wouldn't be called on for much more crying.

"The Country Kid" is an appealing picture of three youngsters left to shift for themselves on an old farm, and of the efforts of their uncle guardian to ship them off to an orphanage so that he might buy the farm for a song. Ben Applegate acts at once as mother, father, brother and nurse to the younger brothers, and what with this, and his endeavors to make the neglected farm go, his hands are full.

"The Country Kid" is a Warner Brothers classic of the screen, directed by William Beaudine from the original story Julien Josephson. The usual added attraction for Wednesday is offered.

DOBINSON PLAYERS

The Dobinson Players opened in "Mamma's Affair," with a matinee today, at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre and will present the play at 8:15 o'clock tonight and every night this week, with a 2:30 o'clock Saturday matinee, states Mrs. Florence Dobinson.

This is the Harvard prize play by Rachel Barber Butler that made such a hit in New York. Gertrude Kellar does excellent work as "Mamma" and Mary Isabelle Alpagh, William H. Stephens, George C. Pearce and the rest of the cast are all excellent.

"Mamma's Affair" is a comedy and a delightful one, but it nevertheless presents with unflinching fidelity certain rather serious phases of American life. The play is one to be seen, enjoyed and remembered. It is clever to the point of brilliance and splendidly done by the Dobinson Players.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S THANKSGIVING

"Well, Nurse Jane, we have a great deal to be thankful for," said Uncle Wiggily, as he finished his Thanksgiving dinner and ate the last part of it, which was a piece of pumpkin pie.

"Indeed we have," spoke the muskrat lady housekeeper. And then, as Uncle Wiggily pushed his chair back from the table and arose, she asked: "Where are you going?"

"I am going out to find some one who hasn't as much to be thankful for as we have," answered the bunny gentleman, with a polite twinkle of his pink nose.

"And when you find some one who isn't thankful, what are you going to do?" asked Nurse Jane.

"I am going to give them a piece of your wonderful pumpkin pie," answered the bunny. So saying, he put in the side pocket of his coat, wrapped in a paper napkin, a piece of the brown, soft, squashy pumpkin pie.

Off hopped Uncle Wiggily over the fields and through the woods. First he came to the kennel house where Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow lived.

"Are you thankful, little doggie boys?" asked the bunny.

"Very thankful, indeed, Uncle Wiggily; thank you," barked Peetie.

"We had some lovely bones to gnaw for our Thanksgiving dinner," barked Jackie.

"Then you don't need my pie," said the bunny.

The rabbit gentleman hopped on, over the fields and through the woods, until he came to the house, inside a warm, hollow tree, where lived Jacko and Jumpo, the two monkey boys.

"Are you thankful, little monkeys?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"Very thankful, indeed, Uncle Wiggily!" chattered Jacko.

"We just had a fine, big cocoanut for our Thanksgiving dinner," said Jumpo.

"Then you don't need my piece of pumpkin pie," laughed the bunny.

He hopped on farther and, all of a sudden, as he was near the duck pen of Lulu, Alice and Jimmie Wibblewobble, the Woozie Wolf jumped out of the bushes.

"Are you thankful, Mr. Wolf?" asked Uncle Wiggily before he really thought to whom he was speaking. "Are you thankful this day?"

"Oh, yes, indeed, I am very thankful!" howled the Wolf. "I am thankful that I met you, when I didn't expect to, for now I can nibble your ears for my Thanksgiving dinner."

"Oh, but I'm not going to let you nibble my ears," said the bunny, and he began to crowd his ears under his tall silk hat as fast as he could push them beneath the brim. "I'll not let you nibble my ears, Mr. Wolf."

"Then I am not thankful!" growled the bad chap. "I'm not at all thankful!"

"Oh, ho! At last I've found some one who isn't thankful!" cried the rabbit. "At last there is some one who needs Nurse Jane's pumpkin pie!"

With that Uncle Wiggily took the soft, squashy piece of pie from his pocket and smashed it down on the Wolf's face. In the eyes and nose of the bad chap the soft pumpkin pie was mushed.

"Oh, goozie! Goozie! Goozie! Goop!" spluttered the Wolf. "Where are you, Uncle Wiggily? I can't see you to nibble your ears! My eyes are filled with pie! Where are you?"

"I am where you can't get me!" laughed the bunny. And while the Wolf was trying to get the pie out of his eyes, the bunny hopped safely home to his bungalow. "I have much to be thankful for," he said to Nurse Jane. "Your pie saved my ears!"

And if the bathroom sponge doesn't splatter water on the bread box and make the coffee cake catch cold, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the castor oil.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

ACHING ARCHES AND INSTEPS

M. H. writes that she has throbbing pains in her feet. They do not seem to be flat at the arch. She has been wearing an arch support for some months.

A simple way of finding out whether the arch is fallen is to step in water and then step on the bare foor. If the arch is normal, only the outer edge of the foot and the ball and heel will register. There will be a big gouge in the impression on the inner side where the foot does not touch the floor.

There are different degrees of fallen arches, and it may be possible that yours, M. H., may have fallen to a degree. You should not wear an arch support that has not been fitted to you by an orthopedic surgeon. It is possible for foot pains to be reflex from other abnormal conditions in the body. You had better have a thorough physical examination at once.

Here are some of the exercises for strengthening the arch: walking for a few minutes four or five times a day, toeing in as much as possible (the normal way to walk is with the feet straight ahead, not toeing in or out); walking on the sides of the feet; rising on the toes; twisting the feet in and out.

Of course it is highly important to have a properly fitting shoe. Going from high to low heels sometimes causes the foot and leg to ache. The excessively high and narrow heel for walking is pernicious because it throws the weight forward too far and puts the weight too near the toes. The medium heels, always the same height, should be chosen for walking, and the heels should be kept in repair, so they are not worn down unevenly. It is important that the stockings are long enough so as not to cramp the feet.

CAUSE FOR MISERY

Mrs. A.—Yes, there is certainly some reason for your feeling miserable all the time. You should have a very complete physical examination, for there evidently is something wrong. You are also overweight, which shows that you are over-eating. Over-eating, of course, brings on a train of disorders.

Your trouble may be a dietary one. Send for our articles on constipation and auto-intoxication; also include 10 cents in stamps, a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and ask for the pamphlet on reducing. Do not forget the self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Miss K.—You must go to a reliable physician and find out the cause of that discharge of pus. It is not normal.

TOO SPEEDY?

"Dear Dr. Lulu:—I found your instructions the real thing to reduce by. I lost sixty pounds by following them. I did weigh 200, and from November 1 to May 12 I lost the sixty pounds. I feel dandy and am very proud of my results.—C."

You reduced at the rate of ten pounds a month. A little too fast, but so long as you had no ill results, it was, apparently, all right for you. Two pounds a week is a good loss after the first three low calorie days (not exceeding 800 calories a day) of shrinking the stomach, at which time you lose from five to ten pounds. The reason that more of a loss is not advisable is that a diet that would reduce more than this amount is apt to be deficient in some of the elements necessary for repair and proper functioning.

Tomorrow—A Way to Express Thanksgiving

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words and type or write them legibly with ink Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest Don't forget the s. a. s. e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

WELL FED SHOULDERS

Thin shoulders have a starved look, which only adds to their ugliness. Yet even the thinnest woman can have nice shoulders and a nice chest if she will work for them.

The first thing is to learn how to stand. Most undernourished women stoop; no doubt the physical ailment which keeps them thin deprives them of the energy to stand erect. Keep the chest up and the shoulders back; or rather, keep the abdomen in, even if you have to hold it in with a corset; and keep the chest high. If you cultivate this posture the shoulders will go back of themselves and without giving you the general appearance of a wooden soldier at attention.

Learn Deep Breathing. The thin woman rarely gets enough vital, fresh bracing air into her lungs. When she does, her lungs expand, her chest develops, flesh creeps under the skn, and before she knows it, a lot of hollows have disappeared and a lot of bones are invisible. Stand by your open bedroom window in the morning and breathe in deeply ten times, it will wake you up and send your blood racing. Breathe deeply, holding your breath in a little each time, as you walk or work out-of-doors; this takes no extra time.

Lastly, massage the shoulders Use the Fine Cold Cream given in the column yesterday. Or, if you want a special cream, and a specially fattening one, take that same formula and substitute cocoa butter for the white wax. This is easier to massage with than plain warmed cocoa butter, though the butter by itself is a little more nourishing.

Wash the skin first, or hold wet hot towels over it to open the pores, the skin will take up more cream that way. Massage gently, but firmly, too, for the stimulation of the massage is as good as the cream. Do this every day.

Hazel R.: The oil you mention will do for massaging a dry scalp before shampooing, but it is best to give the oil treatment the night before, leaving the oil on the scalp until the ime for shampooing the next morning.

When there is dandruff use the oil as hot as you find comfortable for the scalp. In ordinary cases of a dry scalp, olive oil makes a good treatment; but in a case of dandruff, crude oil or any of its by-products, such as the one you suggest, will be needed to dislodge all these scales and also improve the scalp's general condition.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Luncheon-Bridge

Oakmont Country club provided the artistic setting yesterday for a luncheon and bridge, presided over by Mrs. Owen C. Emery of 610 West Myrtle street. In keeping with the spirit of harvest time was the clever centerpiece of fruit, arranged on the luncheon table. Red candles and Thanksgiving placecards and scorecards were also features. Mrs. Will Richardson held high score for bridge, while Mrs. L. H. Wilson won the consolation prize. Mrs. Emery's guests were Mesdames J. V. Rea, J. I. Wernette, L. H. Wilson, Paul Stillman, W. E. Evans, E. U. Emery, Frankie Webb, W. Laurien Hyde, Will Richardson, O. L. Andresen, C. C. Cooper, Helen Sawyer, J. G. Huntley, Walter Benedict, T. D. Watson, W. L. Twining of Glendale; and Lyman Clark of Pasadena.

Home from North

Mr. and Mrs. Don Packer, Jr., of 435 Pioneer Drive, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. H. Eric Charles and Leonard Charles of Los Angeles, left early Friday morning for San Francisco, arriving there that night. They were guests at a turkey dinner served at the home of Mrs. Packer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Cook, of San Francisco and formerly of Glendale. A party of San Francisco friends were present and the evening was spent in dancing. Saturday they attended the football game between Stanford and the University of California. Leaving San Francisco Sunday afternoon the party returned to Glendale, arriving early Monday morning.

Meet at School

The Park Avenue Parent-Teacher association met at the school yesterday afternoon with seventy-five mothers and friends present. Pupils of the first grade, of which Miss Anderson is the teacher, presented an interesting Thanksgiving program. Mrs. E. Mozee, president, directed the meeting, when plans were made for a silver tea to be held the latter part of December. Members are making a silk quilt which will be sold at the silver tea. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mesdames Wm. Bush, Wm. Moseley and Edward Baker. The next meeting will be held on December 16.

Birthday Party

Miss Marjory Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Turner, 118 East Park avenue, celebrated her sixteenth birthday Saturday night with a dinner dance. The rooms of the Turner home were decorated in carnations and ferns, to carry out a color scheme of pink and green. Colonial placecards were found at the place of each guest. Covers were laid for fifteen high school friends of the honoree. Mrs. Mart a Pierson and Mrs. C. B. Shriver served the dinner and arranged the party. Dancing was enjoyed during the evening.

Benefit Affair

Many reservations are being received for the bridge, five hundred and mah jongg party, December 3 at the John Robert White home, 347 North Orange street, as a benefit for Glendale federation Parent-Teacher associations. Reservations will close next Tuesday. Up until that time tickets can be secured from Mrs. Emil Johnson or Mrs. John Robert White, Jr.

Inspect Tent

Mrs. Permelia Dougherty, department inspector, and Mrs. Dunsieth, president, of Cora Barton tent, Daughters of Veterans, were visitors at the meeting last night of Mary Jane Gillette tent, Daughters of Veterans, held at 1430½ South San Fernando road. Mrs. Dougherty inspected the tent, complimenting the members on their work and appearance. The members wore white dresses made in simple style. Mrs. Dunsieth gave a short talk. Mrs. Dougherty was presented with a handmade apron, hand-embroidered and lace-trimmed by one of the members. After the meeting a social time was enjoyed and refreshments of home-made cake and coffee were served by Mrs. Queen Danner and Mrs. Alma Dutton. The hall had been attractively decorated with ivy and pink geraniums, bouquets of marigolds, blue cornflowers and ferns were placed at each station. Mrs. Dutton and Mrs. Danner had charge of the decorating. The next meeting will be held on December 9.

Share Honors

Mrs. Edward Pomeroy of 1125 East Harvard street was hostess at a dinner party Monday night, complimenting her husband's mother, Mrs. F. W. Pomeroy of Burbank, who was celebrating her seventy-ninth birthday, and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Pomeroy, Jr., who were observing their sixteenth wedding anniversary. Covers were laid for Rev. and Mrs. F. W. Pomeroy, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pomeroy of Burbank, Mr. and Mrs. F .W. Pomeroy, Jr., of the Brand estate, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pomeroy, Miss Dora Pomeroy. It will be of interest to their many friends in the city to know that Rev. and Mrs. Pomeroy will observe the fifty-sixth anniversary of their wedding on November 29.

I have noticed in the shops, lately many articles decorated with ribbon glued on. The housewife can easily make these dainty things, two of which I shall describe:

Bonbon Boxes: Everybody has one of the tin candy boxes, in which to keep sweet chocolate, mints, or other dainties which one might need in one's room at night when unable to sleep. But the bare tin cover may be much improved by being entirely covered with colored picot-edged ribbon to match the color scheme of the bedroom. To make this covering, draw the picot thread on one side of the ribbon, along the selvedge, so as to gather the ribbon slightly; lay it around the edge of the cover (on top) and cut it off after forming a complete circle of it, which reaches all around the coveredge. Glue the gathered edge to the box, then proceed as before, gathering the ribbon again, forming another circle (but this circle will be smaller, as it goes inside the first and outer circle), cutting off, and glueing in place. The third circle will even be smaller; and if your ribbon is very narrow you may possibly need a fourth circle to cover the very center of the lid. Finish with a little cluster of silk flowers in the middle. The entire box—that is, sides of lid and lower portion of box—may be covered if desired with this ribbon laid in straight and ungathered.

Ribbon-Decorated Wall Mirror: A pretty boudoir mirror can be made by glueing a fairly small, square, looking glass to a square piece of heavy cardboard which is large enough to leave a two-inch border all around the mirror. Cover the top of this border with two-inch-wide (perhaps wider) ribbon glued on flat; decorate this plain strip with a row of colored silk flowers in the center. Now place a similar flat strip over the bottom cardboard-border and decorate in the same way. The cardboard borders on either side of the mirror are covered with ribbon glued on in loops, one loop covering the glued portion of the last and the top loop hiding its glued ends under a strip of gold braid. From under the lowest loop on each side, hangs a long gold tassel. Gold cording, attached to the cardboard border from upper corner to upper corner, and slipped over a glass thumb-tack on the wall, hangs the mirror.

Coolidge Cabinet Will Not Have Big Shakeup

if the president insists. Technically all the cabinet officers submit their resignations to take effect on March 4, but when an administration is elected to succeed itself these resignations are as a rule perfunctory.

Coolidge, howefer, is in a somewhat different situation. He did not select the men who compose the cabinet. He is responsible for Attorney General Stone, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and the new secretary of agriculture who will, of course, stay only till March 4, as he has been elected governor of West Virginia.

Changes Unlikely

This leaves Secretary of State Hughes, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Secretary of Commerce Hoover, Secretary of War Weeks, Secretary of the Interior Work, Secretary of Labor Davis, and Postmaster General New as the appointees of the late President Harding. Because of the relationship of their portfolios, the retention of Messrs. Hughes, Mellon and Hoover may be regarded as sure. The other four portfolios may not see immediate changes, but some of the incumbents might of their own initiative desire to return to private life or elective offices.

Both Mr. Weeks and Mr. New are former members of the United States Senate. Mr. Weeks was caught in the maelstrom of local politics in Massachusetts in 1918 after a good legislative record in the Senate here. Mr. New was the victim of a division in his own party in Indiana when he lost to Beveridge in the primaries and then Beveridge was in turn beaten by Ralston, Democrat. Factional quarrels played a part in the final result.

Summarizing the entire cabinet situation, therefore, the chances of changes would seem to narrow down to four portfolios—war department, labor, interior, postoffice—and of these labor and interior are the only ones in which there has been an indication that the incumbents are anxious to return to private life. The cabinet of President Coolidge on the whole will undergo little change for another year at least.

Buckeye Society Holds Enthusiastic Meeting

An enthusiastic meeting of the Buckeye society was held at Hahn's auditorium, 109-A North Brand boulevard, last night. C. N. Wilder, president of the society, presided at the meeting when the nominating committee reported that the election would not take place for another month on account of the absence of the chairman of the committee. Ray Miller's Syncopated orchestra furnished musical entertainment. Dancing was enjoyed. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, December 23. President Wilder said former Buckeyes wishing to obtain membership cards should see A. Van Wormer, at the Security Trust & Savings bank.

Girl Confesses Love For Murdered Banker

—see through anything—and who loves me and whom I love—I do.

"I wish I could tell you for once and for all so that you would never doubt it—no one could take your place—I think you are as perfect as a person could be.

"I'll even forgive you the way you let your fingernails go. Because I do love you so much that I could never know anyone who would not antagonize me by falling short—I am glad of it."

Mrs. Fee, the banker's widow, told the authorities she had quarreled with her husband from time to time "regarding women."

One theory advanced in the mystery was that Fee had been murdered near his home, the body concealed for some time and then carried to a spot near Miss Watkins' cabin, where it was found partially concealed by brush. The real murderer, police said, did this to involve Miss Watkins.

Beau Brummels Answer To Burglary Charges

Two youths dressed in the very latest fashion, appearing as though they had stepped from the pages of a tailor's catalogue were arraigned this morning before Judge Frank H. Lowe of the Glendale police court, on charges of first degree burglary, after being identified by Miss Florence Shoop of 411 Patterson avenue, as the "real estate salesman" who robbed her home on November 4, under pretext of arranging a sale of the property.

The youths, Robert Nelson and John Lasley, were arrested yesterday in Pasadena, through the efforts of Detective Lieutenant W. J. Royle of the Glendale police department, working with Captain Townsend of the Los Angeles county sheriff's office. Their preliminary hearing was set by Judge Lowe for 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, December 8. One was dressed in "knickers," the other in "balloon" pants, will also appear before the Pasadena police court on December 3 and the Los Angeles police court on December 4, on burglary charges, according to Lieutenant Royle. Chief John D. Fraser of the Glendale police department questioned both youths this morning but obtained little information. The articles stolen from the home of Miss Shoop, comprising several pieces of jewelry, have not been recovered.

Commerce Body Asks Colleges Get Together

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26.—Having as its goal the evolving of a plan to bring about a reconciliation between the universities of California, Stanford and Southern California and the resumption of athletic activities between the three colleges, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has launched a widespread campaign, it was learned today. The series of meetings to make plans for re-establishment of friendly relations between the schools has been arranged, S. L. Weaver, former president of the organization here, said today.

Relations between the schools were severed November 8 when charges of professionalism in athletics was made against the University of Southern California.

Monrovia Resident Is Given Jail Term In L.A.

Clarence Bellamy of Monrovia, colored, was sentenced this morning by Judge Frank H. Lowe of the Glendale police court to serve five days in the Los Angeles county jail on a speeding charge and was given an additional term of thirty days for contempt of court in failing to appear for trial on August 25. He was arrested August 14.

Governor Gets Report On Owens Difficulties

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 26.—State Engineer W. F. McClure, state arbiter in the Owens valley-Los Angeles water war, was preparing today to return to Los Angeles for conference with city officials there. McClure reported to Governor Richardson on his findings, his report being followed by a statement from Governor Richardson warning Inyo county officials that they are responsible for damage caused by mobs or riots.

"I want county officers to feel their responsibility and not pass the matter to me," the governor said.

Japs Not In Favor Of Disarmament Session

TOKIO, Nov. 26.—Japan is doubtful of the success of another disarmament conference. The foreign office today expressed willingness to send delegates to such a conference if it is summoned by President Coolidge. At the same time, however, it was pointed out that public sentiment in Japan would prevent further concessions by that nation's representatives in disarmament.

It was further declared that the Japanese public believed present armament of Japan the lowest possible consistent with national security.

Eastern Speculators Boom for Lumber Mills

SEATTLE, Nov. 26.—Speculative buying of lumber in the east has not been followed by increased production in Pacific coast mills although mill owners anticipate placing of heavy orders before the end of the year. Output in the last week has increased five per cent but this has simply been to accommodate immediate orders. Surfaced and sized dimensions prices have advanced 50 cents to $1 a thousand.

Glendale Class C Team Survives First Round; Lightweights to Meet Huntington Park Squad Here Tomorrow Afternoon

On Glendale's Thanksgiving day gridiron menu for tomorrow will be the semi-final game in the Southern California Class B playoff, when the local lightweights meet Huntington Park at Broadway field at 2:30 o'clock.

This game should be the best of the entire series, inasmuch as the local lightweights have not been scored upon this season, and the Huntington Park squad has held the state championship in the Class B division for three consecutive years. Huntington Park entered the playoff this year by defeating Venice 13 to 7 in the finals of the Bay league.

Only eight times during the five Central league games played by the Glendale eleven did their opponents succeed in making first downs, and only once did opponents succeed in getting the ball within Glendale's forty-yard line. Their goal line has not been crossed, while the local lightweights have piled up 83 points to their opponent's nil.

Beat San Bernardino

Glendale eliminated San Bernardino in the opening round of the playoff, trimming the Gate City team 14 to 0 at San Bernardino last Saturday. On the same day the Class B team of Pasadena was defeating Burbank lightweights, 75 to 0. The winner of the Glendale-Huntington Park game tomorrow will play Pasadena next week for the Southern California title.

Coaches Butterfield and Hicks have been busily engaged the last few days pointing the lightweights for the Huntington Park game. The Bay league winners are determined to stay in the playoff at the expense of Glendale, according to advance dope from the home town, and are intent upon taking the state title for the fourth time. To do this they must push Glendale aside tomorrow.

The game will start at 2:30 o'clock. The place is Broadway field. Season tickets will not be accepted for admission at any post-season game, but tickets will be on sale at the bleachers for the big game. Aside from the L. A.-Poly clash in the Coliseum tomorrow, no other High school games will be played on Turkey Day in Southern California.

By trampling on the Pasadena fleaweights yesterday afternoon on Broadway field, 14 to 6, Coach Eugene Wolfe's Firecrackers advanced into the final round of the Southern California class C playoff. The Firecrackers will meet Huntington Park some time next week for the championship of this part of the state.

The Glendale tads are the forerunners of the Glendale host of three teams bidding for Southern California championships. The class B bunch has only one more game to win before going into the finals while the heavyweights have two games.

The first period in yesterday's game passed with both teams punting frequently and being unable to advance the ball past the edge of their opponent's territory. The punting duel between Lovell and Hall continued in the second quarter, both backs averaging around forty yards on rather low boots.

Score Touchdown

Sunderland broke the monotony by spearing Lovell's twenty-yard pass and running eighteen yards to the Pasadena thirteen-yard mark. Mainland smashed tackle for a nine yard gain and Killinger made yards, putting the ball on the Millionaire's three-yard line. Sunderland tried a quarterback sneak and gained two yards. Killinger crashed through the line for the touchdown. Alley Lovell converted.

Sunderland took the kick-off back twenty yards to Glendale's thirty-yard line. Wykoff booted a long rolling spiral forty-five yards and Cuke Randall recovered Stell's fumble of the kick for Glendale on the Red and White thirty-yard line, but the time keeper's gun prevented the locals from marching across the line.

The Millionaires lost an excellent chance to score in the third quarter when they had the pill on Glendale's fifteen-yard mark. The visitors had worked the ball deep into Glendale's territory but the locals got the ball on downs. Wykoff's hurried punt from behind his own goal line went out on the fifteen-yard mark and gave the Millionaires the ball, but sterling work on the part of Lovell, who knocked down a pass which would have meant a touchdown for Pasadena, and the Firecracker's line again gave Glendale the ball on downs.

Pasadena Scores

The Pasadena boys gathered punch enough to march down the field with runs by Stell, and a twenty-yard pass, Stell to Hall. Smith took the ball over on a center rush from the two-yard line, but Thompson's hurried drop kick sorely fizzled.

Glendale's second touchdown came in the fourth quarter when the Firecrackers got the ball on downs on Pasadena's twenty-five yard line, Pasadena being only inches short on the fourth down. Schneidiger packed the ball around and what appeared to be a touchdown but the referee declared nay and put the ball three inches from the goal mark, giving Killinger a chance to go over for the score. Lovell converted.

The Millionaires uncorked a dazzling aerial attack in the closing minutes of the game, marching down the field on eight passes. With thirteen seconds to play they attempted a pass over the goal line but it was wide and gave Glendale the ball on her twenty-yard line.

WALTER REMAINS 'DARK' ON OFFER

Senators' Pitching Ace on Proverbial 'Fence' on Baseball Future

RENO, Nov. 26.—But two things were certain today regarding the future of Walter Johnson, Washington pitching ace and hero of the 1924 world series.

One was that the veteran hurler remains adamant in his intention of retiring from the big leagues and getting into the baseball business for himself.

The second is that he has not given up hopes of obtaining control of the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league.

A five-minute meeting between Johnson and Cal Ewing and Del Howard, owners of the Oakland club, as they passed through here en route to the Hartford, Conn., minor league meeting, served to strengthen belief that the Oakland negotiations will be reopened.

Walter Undecided

Ewing and Howard intimated to Johnson they would have a proposition for him when they returned in two weeks. It is believed they will offer him the playing management of the club and a block of stock. Johnson, it is believed by his friends, will accept such a proposition on one condition—that it will lead to the ultimate control of the club by himself.

Johnson said he had no details of the reported St. Paul offer but did not evince a great deal of interest in it. He made it plain he had not signed with Washington despite the fact that Joe Engel, representing Clark Griffith, accompanied him on a bear hunt and used all of his powers of persuasion to secure the signature of the big pitcher. It is understood he practically offered to allow Johnson to name his own terms.

Fulton and Fuente Up On Charges of Proism

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26.—Charged with being professional boxers and pugilist-managers, Fred Fulton, the plasterer pugilist of St. Paul, Jack Reddy, his manager, Tony Fuente, Los Angeles heavyweight, and Fred Winsor, Fuente's manager, appeared in justice court here today.

Violation of California's anti-prize fight law was charged against the quartet after Fulton folded up like a fan ten days ago in his bout against Fuente, the fans branding the affair a bald faced fake.

That a sensation would be sprung at the trial was indicated when Winsor declared that as the attorney-general of California has held the state's new boxing law already in effect, professionals' appearances are not barred.

Cornhuskers-U. S. C. Game Now Certain

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26.—Gwynn Wilson, manager of athletics at the University of Southern California will return here tomorrow with a traveling bag packed full of choice football dates for next year. The Nebraska-Trojan game is a certainty it was learned. Wilson has offered the Corn Huskers a huge purse to meet U. S. C. in Los Angeles and the game is expected to draw a crowd of 75,000 persons.

SPORTDOM ALL OVER

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.

Hollywood wasn't "wild" enough for Charlie to stage "I do" ceremony. Funny man of fillums certainly picked hot and wild jurisdiction when he slipped ring on in Mexico. What, with Mexican cabinet resigning and deputies checking guns at door of revolution's chamber, Charlie had more salutes over "I do" vow than were given Unknown Soldier.

World has had Charlie Chaplin married more times than Brigham Young. First it was Edna Purviance; then it was Mildred Harris (the one successful applicant Mexico party); then Pola Negri needed a lot of publicity when she left the wilds of Poland and her nobleman husband for Hollywood. She let the world marry her to Charlie. Now it's Charlie's leading woman, one Miss Grey. Charlie denied it, Miss Grey denied it, Miss Grey's mother denied it, Charlie's brother Sid denied it, Charlie's brother's wife denied it; but The Los Angeles Times took two columns on its front page for two days to insist upon it, so Charlie went and done it to oblige Times in self-defense.

All witnesses hearing famous words "I do" were Mexican except bride's mother. Ceremony performed to tune of populace gurgling hot tamales and high-powered beer and loading guns. Charlie wired friends cross border he would honeymoon in Mexico. Cabinet immediately resigned and deputies adjourned to prevent revolution starting during the night. When Hollywood will see funny man and 18-year-old bride no one knows.

Tony Fuente, when he picked Fulton to lay down for him, didn't use thinker better than promoters of Ascot Speedway when they picked the spot for boys to eat dirt and burn gas. It's worth the price of a press ticket to listen to all the cracker-jack artists and peanut munchers warming grand stand seats waiting for some-one to get killed. A machine that makes the hairpin turn on one wheel is a piker to these cracker-jack birds.

Boys were roaring-up for the Buster Keaton special when we arrived last Sunday. There was one machine in the race officially known as No. 9. Driver looks like King Tut when they put him away couple of thousand years ago. No. 9 car was white. Driver was white. No. 9 wheeled away from a field of eight or nine as though they were stalled. Left-hand turn to cracker-jack birds in grandstand is a mean baby to take on high. No. 9 leaned on the gas at every approach for the ten laps.

Right-hand turn to birds in stand still meaner. Taking this on high is just as sure poison as Mexican firing squad. One bird tried it. Car skidded like Mack Sennett's fire department called out on one of the two rainy days Hollywood has during the calendar year.

George Pheffer, known to Chicago's Loop district as the bettin'est sport and one of the best fellows of Windy City's sportdom, was inadvertently ignored in this column Monday when Ye Ed recited the happenings and notables at Hollywood stadium fight fest. George is "seeing" Hollywood and learning just how things are done in this neck of the woods. He can recite more notable sport events than a schoolboy can say Mother Goose rhymes. With George was Joey Herbert, another regular guy from the place where the wind whistles. Joey is thinking about producing fillums. If Joey knows where he's well off, he'll only think about it.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—When the owners of the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast league come east for the meeting of the minor leagues the first week of December, they will bring with them the right and title to four of the best players left in the minors. When they go back their bank accounts in all probability will be fatter and their playing roster leaner by just four men.

The quartet the writer has in mind are Ellison, first baseman; Rhyne, shortstop; Valla, outfielder, and Waner, outfielder. The latter is the youngster who was discovered in Oakland two years ago and who set the Coast league on fire in 1923 and played pretty good ball in 1924. He batted .354 on the coast last season, and should be able to make a .325 record in the majors.

There seems to be a feeling on the coast that there is a sort of boycott against the San Francisco club because of the position it has taken on the draft. But the chances are all against any such boycott, for if one were established it would mean a baseball rumpus at once. If anything keeps San Francisco from selling players it is the price at which they are held.

Ever since the deal with New York by which O'Connell was sent east for $75,000, and failed to show anything more sensational than participation in a bribery scandal, and the deal with Chicago by which the Sox paid $100,000 for Kamm, there has been an impression among the majors that San Francisco was a little too rich for their blood. It is also a fact that the clubs which most need San Francisco's stars are the ones which can least afford to pay fancy prices for them. The baseball market has been too bullish for the last three years and the tendency is downward.

Still, Connie Mack broke over when he paid $100,000 for Groves of Baltimore and it is argued that if Mack paid that sum for a player other clubs will do likewise—provided, like Mack, they want the player bad enough.

Teachers Hear Speech By Pasadena Preacher

Dr. John Marvin Dean, pastor of the First Baptist church of Pasadena, spoke on "The Church and the School" at the regular meeting of Glendale City Teachers' club yesterday afternoon in the uditorium of the Glendale Avenue school. First vice-president, Miss Loraine Mitchell, presided in the absence of Mrs. Mary Ogden Ryan, president. Miss Elsie Church officiated as secretary pro tem.

Flag salute, followed by community singing of "Ameirca, the Beautiful," led by Miss Elsa Brennaman, with Miss Sharpe, accompanying, opened the meeting.

Miss Naida Crump outlined extension courses to be offered next quarter by the University of Southern California. Miss Ina Butler, soprano, and Mrs. Alice Beeson Bowles, composer-pianist, were heard in a music program, including "Waiting for You" (Alice Beeson Bowles) and "Philosophy" (Lemmel), Mrs. Bowles accompanying on the piano and Harold Korn with violin obligato. Miss Irene McRaynolds was in charge of the program.

Move Headquarters of Community Chest Fund

Headquarters of the Glendale Community Chest will be moved from 246 South Brand boulevard to the mezzanine floor of the Security Bank building, corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway, late today. Mrs. Bess Hill, secretary o fthe chest, will be in charge of the headquarters from this point forward. R. F. Kitterman, treasurer, will be in direct supervision of the drive work. S. C. Haight, organizer, will remain in Glendale until Friday of this week, it was announced.

Bride of Comedy King Former Glendale Girl

Lita Gray, motion picture actress, whose marriage to Charles Chaplin is announced from Guaymas, Mexico, formerly lived in Glendale with her parents. She was one of the talented pupils of Pearl Keller, appearing in 1918 in Miss Keller's children's society vaudeville. Later Miss Gray resumed her study with Miss Keller.

Seattle Banker Pays Visit to Glendalian

Robert S. Walker, prominent banker of Seattle, Wash., spent several hours yesterday in Glendale as the guest of F. C. Wolter of 315 North Orange street. He was en route to San Diego to attend the bankers' convention. Mr. Walker will return to Glendale the first of the week for a stay of several days.

BOXING NOTES

Bert Colima had a comparatively easy time last night winning over Sailor Jack Perry in the main event at Jack Doyle's Vernon arena. Perry was game and came back for more punishment all the time. Johnny Lamar got the nod over Sailor Ritchie King in the semi-windup. Frank Grandetta was awarded the decision over Sailor Navarro. Sailor Joyce and Paul Duarte drew. Joe Layman won over Sailor Fernandez. Babe Harris had the best of Sailor Arabe, and Louie Jordan and Sailor De Cruze went four rounds to a draw.

The average size of a mahogany tree is about 60 feet in height and four feet in diameter.

CHARITY BALL IS SOCIAL SUCCESS

Annual Event Given by Elks Is Attended by Large Crowd Last Night

One thousand Elks and their friends, many of them visitors from all parts of Southern California and as far north as Ventura, Lancaster and Fillmore, attended the annual charity ball given by Glendale lodge No. 1289, at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse last night. The affair, all proceeds from which go to augment the benefit fund of the local lodge, was a brilliant social success.

The Glendale Elks' state championship band opened the program with a half-hour concert starting at 8:15 o'clock. As the curtain was raised and the band played "Glendale B. P. O. E. 1289," the clubhouse auditorium was jammed to overflowing. The following program was given under the direction of J. J. Burke: Overture, William Tell; selection, "A Night in June" (baritone solo by Robert Grayson); Presidential Polonaise (a) Tesora Mio (b) Daddy's Delight (medley march).

E. J. Albright Sings

Edwin J. Albright pleased the large audience with his baritone solos in the second number on the program. Following this the Dobinson Players presented the first two acts of "Adam and Eva."

Several hundred additional guests arrived in time for the dancing in the ball room from 11 to 1 o'clock. Roy Biddlecom's syncopators furnished the music for the dancing. Both the orchestra and the Dobinson Players were tendered special appreciation for donating their services.

Secretary Walter W. Jones acted as master of ceremonies. Gerald A. Dockeray was chairman of the entertainment committee and J. Murray Durham had charge of the dance program.

SCHOOLS TO TRY SAFETY CLASSES

Auto Club Member Suggests To Education Board Traffic Course

E. B. Lefferts, manager of the public safety department, Automobile Club of Southern California, appeared before the Board of Education last night with a plan for developing safety in the minds of children. The board authorized Richardson D. White, superintendent of city schools, to work out a modification of this plan in one of the Glendale elementary or intermediate schools and report back on its merit.

The plan proposed by Mr. Lefferts has as its nucleus the creation of a "safety committee" of two children from each school room, whose duty it will be to guard against traffic accidents by reiterated warnings of the danger that lurks at every crossing, and by other means outlined last night in detail.

Mr. White has not yet decided which school he will select to try out the plan, but it is his opinion that it would not be practicable in any grade below the fourth. Last night's meeting was held in the offices of the board at 107½ South Brand boulevard, Mrs. A. A. Barton, president, presiding.

Other Business

Miss Lucile Council, landscape architect, was authorized to draw up plans for the landscaping of the Grand View school grounds. The board accepted the city's bid for a portion of Fourth street lying to the south of the Grand View school, for street improvement purposes. The action of John T. Cate, business manager, in ordering the Sycamore Canyon road frontage of the Broadway school paved, was approved.

The board accepted the resignation of Miss Alice Foulke as assistant superintendent of physical education and confirmed the promotion of Mrs. Margaret Struble to this position, approving the appointment of Miss Helen Hillman Ritter to fill Mrs. Struble's previous position as girls' physical education teacher of the Wilson Intermediate school.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

With the personal interest of A. G. Arnoll, secretary of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, in Glendale's industrial development, as evidenced at Monday night's forum dinner of the local chamber, there is no question but that this city is going to grow along the right lines.

Growth from an industrial standpoint in a community built by the class which claims Glendale as its home is to be more guarded than in other cities, the writer believes.

Highly specialized industries requiring expert artisans; factories demanding a minimum of ground space, and those which are permanently financed, are the qualifications Glendale should be careful to set forth.

It is easier to acquire industries of the wrong type than to get rid of them once they are located. Likewise, it is difficult to acquire those industries which are particularly suitable, yet a slow and certain development along this line is bound to occur if the people will be patient.

Already many good things have come to Glendale on their own accord. Like attracts like and there will come a day when citizens will be truly thankful that the city is not another Vernon.

China, India, Egypt, Spain and Morocco, among others, are the theatres of conflict in the world today. They are rather distant and not of absorbing interest to the United States.

True, they are our markets in foreign trade, yet if you will note economic conditions in these countries, you will appreciate they are really negligible factors.

In Morocco the Riff tribesmen defeated the Spaniards who are faced with a revolution within their own frontiers; in Egypt the British have taken over Sudan and forced payment of huge indemnities for the murder of Sir Lee Stack; in India the followers of Mahatmi Gandhi continue their campaign of peaceful resistance against Britain, and in China the victorious Anfu party is assuming governmental prerogatives after a brief firecracker episode which didn't unleash the real fireworks of the orient.

Now for America's interest in these world events it would be pleasing to see the results of an examination given high school history students who would be asked the following questions answered in the daily reports of the foregoing events:

Who is the military dictator of Spain?

Why did the Riff tribesmen oppose Spain?

Who threatens to stir a revolt in Spain?

Who was Sir Lee Stack and where was he murdered?

Who is Mahatmi Gandhi and why was he imprisoned and later released?

Who is Tuan Chi Jui and what party in China does he represent and whose troops are supporting him?

If you answer all of these questions it will be necessary to refer to the newspapers of last week. History is being made so rapidly that textbooks are soon out of date.

War Mothers Ask For Clothes, Toys, Jellies

Glendale War Mothers are busy looking after interests of ex-service men and their families and making plans for the holiday season. Mrs. J. M. Cowlin, president of the chapter, makes an appeal for clothing, especially for a suit and overcoat, size 38, for a young man in the tubercular hospital. Contributions of toys are also sought. Those having such articles are asked to call Glendale 684-W. The chapter is also securing jellies to take to the hospital. Those desiring to contribute are to leave the jelly at the Sam Selig store, 135 North Brand boulevard.

INSURANCE FIRM IN LOCAL AGENCY

Continental Life Enters Field Here; Personal Survey Is Made

At the solicitation of James M. Rhoades, former secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce and now engaged in the insurance, loan and real estate business at 106 East Wilson avenue, the Continental Life Insurance Co., St. Louis, has entered the Glendale field.

Edmund P. Melson, president of the Continental Life, made a personal survey of this territory with a view to inducing his company to make real estate loans here After being shown over the city by Mr. Rhoades, Mr. Melson said:

"Do not let the inhabitants of Missouri know that such a place as Glendale exists, for if they knew they would all come here, and instead of loaning money here we would have to move our office here."

Make Loans Here

Mr. Melson said he was astounded at the rapid growth of Glendale in the past four or five years and authorized Mr. Rhoades to announce the Continental Life was ready to loan a million dollars or more on Glendale improved property for three to five years at 7 per cent.

Mr. Melson is a leader in St. Louis business world and has visited every city of any importance in the United States and said that in many cities four times the size of Glendale his company would not be willing to loan the amount they feel safe to place in Glendale. Mr Rhoades made comment that "if men possessing the vision of Mr. Melson see the great future for Glendale, it should brighten the future for all real estate owners in the city."

COMMUNITY CLUB PLANS ELECTION

Service Organization Will Take In 27 Members Next Tuesday

GLENDALE SANITARIUM AND HOSPITAL

Last night the sanitarium guests were afforded a very rare treat in the piano recital given by the Misses Frances and Elizabeth Copeland of Los Angeles. The playing of these young artists is artistic and delightful, displaying a high degree of technique and a depth of feeling seldom heard.

Among the most delightful numbers were "Concert Etude" by MacDowell and the Arensky Suite. The latter numbers were played on two pianos. The teamwork displayed by the young artists in their two piano numbers was little short of marvelous. Never once did they disagree in tempo or attack. The recital was declared by all present to be the most delightful affair of the season thus far.

The concert last night served as a dedication of the new piano being purchased for the sanitarium by the sanitarium orchestra.

On Saturday night of this week the sanitarium orchestra will give a concert to help finish paying for this piano, and also to assist the Glendale academy in the raising of money for the purchase of a new grand piano. The orchestra will be assisted by Miss Nellie Winslow, 'cellist, Miss Kathryn Nason, pianist, Miss Pauline Sturges, reader ,and Paul Campbell, tenor, who has recently come from Chicago. The concert, which promises to be a delightful affair, will be given in the auditorium of the Glendale academy in Sycamore canyon.

NEW COMEDY NOW PLAYERS' VEHICLE

'Mamma's Affair,' Harvard Prize Play, Opens at Clubhouse Today

"Mamma's Affair," the fascinating comedy given by the Dobinson Players at the Club Playhouse this week, beginning today's matinee, had an interesting origin.

When Oliver Morosco, the New York producer, heard that John Craig of the famous Castle Square Stock Co. of Boston had withdrawn his annual offer of a $500 prize for the best play written by a student of Prof. George Baker's "English 47" class of Harvard and Radcliffe, he immediately substituted a prize of his own for a like amount, to be awarded under the same terms. As a result, forty plays were submitted and "Mamma's Affair," written by Rachel Barton Butler, was awarded first prize.

Story of Play

The story tells of a woman who, believing herself ill most of the time, tries to absorb the energy and attention of those about her. Her daughter Eve is the one really in need of the attention given her mother as she has become a nervous wreck due to waiting upon her.

Mrs. Orrin, the mother, and Eve, together with Mrs. Marchant, Mrs. Orrin's dearest girlhood friend, and Henry Marchant, her son, travel a good deal in search of Mrs. Orrin's health. They go to The Willows, a hotel in the Massachusetts hills near where Mrs. Orrin and Mrs. Marchant went to school in their younger days, and where the marriage of Eve and Henry is to take place within the month.

Doctor Called

Upon their arrival the first important thing to do was to get a physician for Mrs. Orrin, who carried a list of the best physicians in every large city and town in which they intended to stay. In this instance they call Dr. Jansen, a young doctor, who is quick to notice the unnatural paleness of Eve, who he assumes is his patient, but Mrs. Orrin promptly corrects him. He prescribes for Mrs. Orrin complete rest, but goes about to cure Eve, taking her away from the troubling atmosphere of her mother and Mrs. Marchant, and putting her in the care of Mrs. Bundy, a motherly old lady. Eve thrives upon this treatment and blossoms out into a healthy young woman full of life. Eve and Dr. Jansen fall in love and poor Henry is broken-hearted.

Dobinson Cast

The cast includes: Gertrude Kellar portrays Mrs. Orrin, the fussy mamma; Dr. Jansen is portrayed by Joseph McManus, Mary Isabelle Alpaugh plays Eve, while William H. Stephens portrays Henry Marchant. Mrs. Marchant is played by Thyra Ruhland, and the bell boy is the role of Richard Ehlers, while Laura Winston plays Mrs. Bundy.

Alumni Society Plans Presentation Of Opera

The Alumni Operatice society of Glendale High school held a meeting in the home of Miss Betty Maberry, 302 Louise street, recently. Miss Gwenlillian Warner, vice-president, presided in the absence of Harry Murphy, president. The society was recently organized and plans were discussed for the presentation of the opera, "Cherry Blossom," in the spring. Miss Mildred Sooy is secretary and Robert Laird, business manager of the society.

Central Avenue Residents Organize Permanently For Protection

Preliminary steps toward effecting a permanent organization of Central avenue property owners and lease-holders were taken last night at a meeting of the Central Avenue Improvement association, held in the office of O. M. Newby, 107 South Central avenue, President Charles B. Guthrie presiding.

William Slatter was appointed secretary pro tem and a committee comprising Mr. Slatter and, in addition, W. F. Tower and John S. Knox was named by President Guthrie to draft a constitution and by-laws. It was voted to make a drive for members and at a later meeting elect permanent officers.

T. A. Hanrahan, secretary of the Federal Paving Co., who has the contract for the $270,000 improvement job now under way on Central avenue, was present at the meeting and stated the work will be completed within sixty working days, and that certain parts of the street will be open for traffic within ten days. George I. Faw, superintendent in charge of the work, was also present, and gave the members certain detailed information on the work.

Cost to Owners

D. C. Bear stated he had obtained from the city engineer figures to show that the improvements now under way, comprising pavement, ornamental street lights, sewers and curbs, will cost the property owners $23 a front foot, or $1,150 for a fifty-foot lot, and one-third more for corner lots. Sidewalks are to be put in, where needed, at an additional expense to property owners, Mr. Bear stated. The street is to be paved sixty-eight feet between curbs, with a 4-inch asphaltic concrete base and a 1½ inch Warrenite top dressing.

J. M. Boland, president of the Colorado Boulevard Improvement association, asked Mr. Hanrahan if the recently adopted city type of lighting standard could be substituted for the Union Metal standard ordered for this job, but was informed such a change would invalidate the entire proceedings.

Scottish Band To Play In City Friday Night

The Cowie Juvenile Scottish Pipe band will appear in a program of Scotch music at the Glendale Intermediate school Friday, November 28, at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the Cerritos Parent-Teacher association. Tickets for the entertainment are being sold at a nominal sum. Special dances and songs will be given by the band members.

The Name Alone--Security

Thirty-five years of safe, conservative banking have added to the meaning people locally attach to this name. It is with a feeling of real "security" that people announce, "My account is at the Security Bank."

From a small bank with one room, this organization has grown to have over 285,000 Depositors and 42 Banking Offices. During these years of growth and expansion, the name SECURITY has always stood for "The Bank With Every Service."

I AM ON THE JOB AGAIN

and will be glad to meet my old clients at my new place of business, where you will get the same efficient service and courteous treatment as formerly.
Here are a few of my opening offerings:
50x135, business lot on Colorado, close in, bound to double in value in the next three or four years, possibly sooner. No investment like it, considering location, price, terms and possibilities. Price $10,000, $1000 cash, balance straight 7%, 5 year mortgage.
Imagine a court site 100 x250 ft. in Glendale for $3000. I have it. Only $800 cash, balance $50 per month. Real money to be made on this. Also a lot 50x250 for $1500, $400 cash, balance $25 per mo. More than one house allowed.
A fine 6 room house that $300 cash and trust deed will buy. Will also take in clear lot.
Owner laid up and will sacrifice 6 room house with sleeping porch, making 4 bedrooms, for $5300—takes about $400 to complete house. Price $5300—$500 cash, balance $50 per month, including interest.
Bring in your listings, as I am showing property to real buyers.

THIS IS NO JOKE I'M MAD

I advertised the best house in this town for the money and no one came to look at it and I am going to give you one more chance to buy a real home at a bargain; 7 rooms on a West Lexington drive corner, plenty of room to build another house facing street. Fine lawn and shrubs; in fact a dandy home. NOW GET THIS PRICE, $6300!—I said only $6300, $1000 down and $60 per month. If you people know a bargain, and want a nice home close in, come and look it over, that's all I ask, I know what you'll do then.

MISSIONARIES IN GENERAL SESSION

Christian Church Visitation Meet Receives Reports Of Varied Programs

Every Christian church visitation was held yesterday afternoon and night at the Central Christian church when representatives from the Home and Foreign Missionary societies and educational organizations presented their program and released the budget for the coming year. Conferences of organizations were held during the afternoon.

Mrs. L. E. Dodd, district superintendent of missionary societies, presented the missionary program and Chancellor F. M. Rogers presented the program of the California Christian college. Rev. Charles R. Hudson, state superintendent of the State Missionary society, and Dr. Royal J. Dye, field representative of the United Christian Missionary society, and a missionary in Africa for twenty years, presented the programs of work for the organization.

The purpose of the meeting was to present the work of the organizations to the church congregation and acquaint the people with the work being done and how the money is spent. The budget of the Central Christian church for the Home and Foreign Missionary society work and educational program is $4000.

Old People's Home Plan

The church dinner was served at 6 o'clock last night to 150 members of the church. Rev. C. A. Cole, pastor of the Central Christian church and chairman of the educational committee of the state, presented the work of the Sunday school. Wayne Neal, state secretary, representing the Christian Endeavor society, gave a talk on that branch of work.

Dr. Royal J. Dye, in an address, told of the proposed Old People's Home, which will be erected at Lamanda Park, Pasadena, and the proposed budget of $150,000 for the building. Dr. Dye also showed stereopticon views of the Old People's Home, showing pictures of the home and also groups of the inmates. National headquarters of the United Christian Missionary societies of Christian churches is at St. Louis, Mo. Plans for the Jubilee convention which will be celebrated in 1925 were told by Rev. Hudson.

Boy Scouts Get Ready For Big Tujunga Camp

Boy Scouts of Glendale will leave early Friday morning for Big Tujunga canyon, where they will camp until 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Harvey R. Cheeseman, scout executive, will accompany the boys, remaining with them Friday and Saturday. Friday night the various scoutmasters will have charge of the troop camps. Scouts are ordered to take three or four warm blankets. Pup tents and matress bags will be provided by the council. Hikes will be taken, nature study lessons given and scout tests taken.

Grand Lodge Honor To Mrs. Daniel Campbell

Mrs. Daniel Campbell, past worthy matron of Glen Eyrie chapter, O. E. S., past district deputy grand matron and past grand chaplain of the California grand lodge, O. E. S., has been honored with appointment as chairman of warrants and dispensations for the grand lodge. The appointment comes from the grand matron of the state, Mrs. Zella Samson. Mrs. Campbell is also grand representative of the state of New Hampshire.

Boy Scout Troop Of Grand View In Meeting

Boy Scout troop of the Grand View Community church met last night at the home of John Whiting, 1071 Raymond avenue, and spent the evening in passing tests. Scout Scribe Gwynn Rohrer was the first member of the troop to pass all tests, and a number of others are nearly through. When the full patrol of eight have tents and mattress bags will be registered and badges awarded. Uniforms will also be purchased.

MAYOR SAYS U.S.C. ENTITLED TO TILT

Robinson Insists Southern California Team Should Play New Year's

"The Tournament of Roses, conceived and staged by Southern California men and women, in Southern California, should have a Southern California football team in the annual game on New Year's day when a representative team of the west meets Notre Dame, representing the east," declared Mayor Spencer Robinson today.

"The University of Southern California has played exceptional football this season and by virtue of it's ability, should be chosen as the opponents of Notre Dame," Mayor Robinson said. "If a football team in the northern part of the state desires to meet a team from the east, let them arrange another post-season contest, but not participate in a Southern California event.

"The University of California has scheduled a game with the University of Pennsylvania for New Year's day at Berkeley, and this is a West vs. East contest in which the northern part of the state is represented. It is my belief that one Northern California team in such a big contest is enough, and that the University of Southern California should play Notre Dame at Pasadena New Year's day."

Form of Resolution

Mayor Robinson expressed his sentiments, and that of the members of the city council in the following resolution:

"WHEREAS, there has been considerable controvery over the selection of a suitable football team representing the west to meet the Notre Dame eleven, representing the east, in the annual Tournament of Roses contest on New Year's day at Pasadena, and

"WHEREAS, the University of Southern California has played exceptional football this season and by virtue of it's ability should be chosen as the opponents of Notre Dame, and

"WHEREAS, the Tournament of Roses is a Southern California institutional and annual event, conceived and staged by Southern California men and women.

"I, Spencer Robinson, mayor of Glendale, and members of the city council, resolve to give our support to the University of Southern California in the matter of the annual West vs. East football game at Rose bowl, Pasadena, and pledge our efforts to secure such a contest."

Steel Stocks Displaying Strong Upward Move

that of the present week—94,000 tons. Heavy buying of railroad steel was reported in other quarters.

Rails in Second Place

Following closely on the heels of U. S. Steel's advance to a new high at 118, Crucible jumped 8 points to 73; Republic 4 to 52½; Gulf States 3 to 81½; Universal Pipe common 2 to 30; Replogle 2 to 19; Bethlehem 1 to 45⅝; Colorado Fuel-Iron 2 to 40¼; Vanadium 2 to 30. Metal stocks in other departments of the market moved into higher price levels. The most active stock was International Nickel, in new high ground above 24.

A few of the railroad stocks, including Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Southern Railway continued the rallies which were in progress at the close of Tuesday's session, but the rails occupied second position in the active list today as industrials and specialties were pushed to the front.

Industrial Trading

After a period of inactivity around noon, heavy trading was resumed in a number of the industrial specialty stocks, which included the principal textile issues, American Woolen and Consolidated Textile. Woolen moved up 2 points to 61, while textile, on heavy buying, gained 1 point at 4½. American Safety Razor, new stock, sold 2 points higher at 40⅜. Gold Dust was up 3 at 44; Marine preferred 1 point higher at 45.

Most of the evidences of strength which have characterized the market in the last three weeks were present today. The heavy volume of profit-taking and short sales were absorbed without difficulty and each moderate setback was a signal for a new rally in prices. The only irregularity was in the oil stocks, which do not yet appear to be ready to join the forward move in stock values.

Stock sales today, 2,156,000 shares; bonds, $19,984,000.

Glendale Merchant Is Host at Dinner Party

Last night at the Glen Inn a dinner was given by G. E. Schoberlin, manager of the Good Housekeeping Shop, 140 South Brand boulevard, to F. E. Ford, president, and C. E. Fairchild, sales manager of the Pacific coast branch of the Easy Washing Machine Co., Syracuse, N. Y., and managers of Southern California branches of the company.

Sales promotion and advertising were discussed at the dinner, after which an informal smoker was held in Mr. Schoberlin's store and the discussion continued. It was decided that newspaper advertising was the best medium, and next year's campaign will be along this line, in conjunction with outside solicitors.

QUART COSTS $150

SANTA ANA, Nov. 26.—Mrs. Lillian Kohler paid $150 fine here for having a bottle of liquor in her car. It was tied by silk ribbons to a horseshoe, officers said, and she was accompanied by a special policeman from Tia Juana. Mrs. Kohler is said to have recently sued Percy McKay, San Francisco millionaire importer, for $100,000 in breach of promise.

WINDS RAISE HAVOC

ORANGE, Nov. 26.—A survey of this county shows that high winds over the last ten days have done thousands of dollars' worth of damage, particularly to power lines and crops, the hot blasts from the Mojave desert having ruined some of the field crops and citrus.

AVIATOR'S ROMANCE

CHINO, Nov. 26.—A real romantic story is being told here about Roy Smith, 20-year-old aviator, who planned to do a "Charlie Chaplin" and fly to Mexico with his girl sweetheart, Goldie Phillips, aged 13. Instead Smith went to the San Bernardino county jail after taking the girl to Huntington Park.

KELTY MEMORIAL FUND

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 26.—More than $250 has been subscribed to the Kelty memorial fund, according to R. H. Mack, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce here. It is planned to erect a monument along the highway where Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Kelty rode to their death, the latter giving her blood to save her little niece.

AUTO STEALING CHARGE

NEEDLES, Nov. 26.—Stanley Williamson, who was identified as the companion of Larimore Nelson, youthful bandit who killed himself here November 5 rather than surrender to a posse, has been returned to San Bernardino for trial on a charge of stealing an automobile. Nelson shot Louis Welch here in trying to escape.

LOS ANGELES

For Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26.—The City Council today is considering the request of Police Chief R. Lee Heath for 400 traffic officers, including an appropriation of $385-000, in order to properly handle traffic. In session with the police commission yesterday he frankly admitted that beats were neglected in an effort to stem the tide of auto deaths.

With Thanksgiving programs in all schools this afternoon and union services planned by various church denominations tomorrow, Thanksgiving will have its usual observance here. The 250-mile road race at Ascot is the principal sporting event.

Fred C. Beers has filed suit for $200,000 damages against Victor Schertzinger, noted composer and film director, alleging the latter stole the affections of Mary Beers.

Ten applications for dance hall permits, including cafes where dancing would be featured, were denied by the police commission late yesterday, which also revoked the licenses of Paris Inn and "My Cellar," two downtown resorts.

With a dozen motorists in jail over Thanksgiving, the mills of local speed courts grind on, sentencing drivers to five to fifty days, fines ranging from $5 to $? and revocation of licenses. Captain Cleveland Heath of the traffic bureau reports that good results are being noted.

Church Members Are Guests at Banquet

Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Mullen, of the Pacific Avenue Methodist church, entertained sixty members of the organizations of the church last night with a banuet served in the social hall at 7 o'clock. Tables for the dinner were arranged in a square and were attractively decorated with smilax and bouquets of sweetpeas. The affair was an annual gathering and was attended by members of the official board, Sunday school officers and teachers, Epworth League cabinet, the church choir and the junior choir.

Rev. Mullen briefly outlined the program of work at the church for the year. Dr. W. M. Jeffers of Los Angeles, field secretary of the conference claimaints' endowment fund, was the principal speaker. Dr. Jeffers told of the campaign which is now in progress, to raise money for the endowment fund for retired Methodist ministers.

DEATHS - FUNERALS

Funeral services for Charles Weldy, who died in Glendale Friday, November 21, 1924, at the age of 62 years, were held this morning at the grave in Grand View Memorial park. L. G. Scovern, director.

FUR NECKPIECE

LONDON, Nov. 26.—An old fascinating little fur neckpiece is a characteristic of the newest tailored frock. The neckpiece which encircles the throat snugly without any overlapping, is of ermine with a black velvet band above and below. It ties round the neck like a choker collar.

OPEN MEET PLAN OF REPUBLICANS

Harvard High School to Be Scene of Big Rally Thursday, Dec. 11

The executive committee of the recently organized Glendale Republican club met at the offices of Chairman H. M. Butts in the Monarch building yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock and laid plans for an open meeting at the Harvard High school auditorium on the night of Thursday, December 11. The formal launching of the new club, which is now fully organized, will take place on that night.

Ralph Arnold, chairman of the Republican county central committee; Miss Ida R. Koverman, executive secretary of the county committee; Senator A. Burlingame Johnson, Assemblyman Frank C. Weller and all local members of the state and county central committees will be present at the meeting. Chairman Arnold, Miss Koverman, Senator Johnson and Assemblyman Weller will deliver short addresses.

All Are Invited

There will be a musical program and community singing and the public is invited, according to President R. S. Person of the local club.

Selection of the personnel of standing committees to serve until the annual meeting on February 12 was other business taken up by the executive committee yesterday afternoon. The list of committees was not completed, however, so that the names will not be made public until later.

Members of the executive committee attending the meeting, besides Chairman Butts, were: President Person, Vice Presidents L. H. Wilson and Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, Col. James W. Everington, executive secretary; J. C. Sherer, treasurer; H. V. Adams and T. D. Watson.

Man Is Injured When Caught In Truck Body

Arthur Von Rheim of 122-A North Brand boulevard, an employe of E. L. Fleming, street contractor, was injured yesterday afternoon when the lowering device of a gravel truck he was operating shut down on him, catching him between the body and the frame. He was rushed to the Glendale hospital, where an X-ray photograph was taken to determine the extent of his injuries. No broken bones were found and Mr. Von Rheim is reported to be in no immediate danger, though he is still a patient at the hospital.

Driver Is Injured as Tow Car Overturns

Ross Myers of 327 Mira Vista avenue, Montrose, suffered lacerations of the right hand and two severed tendons yesterday when the car in which he was being towed to a garage turned over. He was taken to the Glendale hospital for treatment and then sent home.

EISTEDDFOD BODY ARRANGES DINNER

Glendale District to Meet In Tujunga to Plan Music Program

Lyman P. Clark, who has been officially named general chairman of the Glendale district Eisteddfod, announced today a dinner gathering of the organization at 6 o'clock Saturday night, at the Women's clubhouse, Tujunga. The meeting will be for the purpose of working out definite plans for musical, dramatic and art events in the district, during the coming year. Reservations may be obtained from R. Ernest Tucker at his office in the chamber of commerce rooms, 150 South Brand boulevard.

Prior to the dinner, the chairmen of the three general Eisteddfod departments will meet at the clubhouse and work out plans which will be announced that night, Mr. Clark stated. The three chairmen are: Rene E. Olin, president of the Glendale Symphony orchestra, chairman of the music department; Mrs. Walter Fisher, president of the Burbank Women's club, chairman of the drama department, and Mrs. Roy A. Ballagh, president of the Glendale Art club, chairman of the art department.
